

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE stereotype plates of the General Statutes and of the Supplement thereto having been destroyed in the great fire which, on the 9th and 10th of November, 1872, consumed a large portion of the best business part of the city of Boston, the Legislature, at its extra session, passed on the 10th of December the following resolves, being Chapters 70 and 71 of the Resolves of that year:—

Resolved, That the secretary of the Commonwealth may contract with the state printers for the reproduction of the stereotype plates of the General Statutes and Supplements thereto, destroyed in the late conflagration in the city of Boston, at a cost not exceeding ten thousand four hundred and fifty dollars.

Resolved, That the commissioners on the publication of the General Statutes appointed by chapter one hundred and forty of the resolves of the year eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, be authorized and directed, at an expense not exceeding five hundred dollars, to cause to be incorporated in the new stereotype plates of the General Statutes and Supplements thereto, references to subsequent legislation and judicial decisions.

This volume is published under the authority of these resolves, and is designated "Second Edition, 1873," for convenient reference.

In reproducing the plates of the General Statutes, the commissioners have retained everything which was in the former edition; have inserted in their proper places all amendments to the Constitutions of the Commonwealth and the United States; have noted the chapters, sections, and parts of sections of the statutes expressly repealed or superseded; and have made numerous references in the margin to subsequent legislation and judicial decisions.

The letter R or S is placed at the head of each repealed or superseded section, the section is enclosed in brackets, and in the margin, or at the head of the chapter, a reference is made to the Act by which the section is thus affected.

PREFACE

TO THE FIRST EDITION.

ON the 16th day of February, 1855, pursuant to the recommendation of commissioners appointed by the governor under a resolve of the preceding year to report a plan for consolidating and arranging the general statutes of the commonwealth, the legislature passed a resolve requiring the governor, with the advice and consent of the council, to appoint three commissioners "for consolidating and arranging the general statutes of the commonwealth on the basis, plan, and general form and method of the Revised Statutes," with authority to "omit redundant enactments and those which may have ceased to have any effect or influence on existing rights; to reject superfluous words, and condense into as concise and comprehensive a form, as is consistent with a full and clear expression of the will of the legislature, all circuitous, tautological, and ambiguous phraseology; to suggest any mistakes, omissions, inconsistencies, and imperfections which may appear in the laws to be consolidated and arranged, and the manner in which they may be corrected, supplied, and amended." By virtue of this resolve,

JOEL PARKER, of CAMBRIDGE,
WILLIAM A. RICHARDSON, of LOWELL, and
ANDREW A. RICHMOND, of ADAMS, were appointed and commissioned March 9, 1855. The commissioners immediately entered upon the discharge of their duties; and, having completed the same in the autumn of 1858, their report was submitted in print to the legislature at the commencement of the annual session in January, 1859, by Messrs. Parker and Richardson ; Mr. Richmond having been prevented by illness from participating in the work during the last year of its progress.

On the 23d day of February, 1859, resolves were passed providing for a special session of the legislature, to be commenced on the first Wednesday of the next September, for the purpose of completing the revision, and also providing for the appointment of a joint special committee, consisting of the president and eleven other members of the Senate and the speaker and twenty-eight other members of the House of Representatives, to examine and consider, during the recess of the legislature, the report of the commissioners, to incorporate therein all general laws passed by the legislature at the annual session of that year, and with power to propose such amendments and alterations in existing laws as the committee might deem expedient.

The committee appointed under these resolves organized early in April, immediately after the adjournment of the legislature, and was in session about eighty days, exclusive of intervals of adjournment, holidays, and Sundays.

The committee reported in print, at the special session in September, numerous amendments to the commissioners' report, incorporating the legislation of the previous session and proposing many changes in the existing laws.

The legislature commenced its special session on the first Wednesday of September, and at that session, on the 28th day of December, 1859, passed the following act, which is therein designated as the GENERAL STATUTES.

By chapter 140 of the resolves of 1859, the undersigned were appointed commissioners "to edit and superintend the printing and publication of the General Statutes of the commonwealth, together with the Constitution thereof, the Constitution of the United States, and such other additions as they deem expedient," and to prepare marginal notes to the sections of the Statutes, and an exact and copious Index to the whole.

The text of the Constitution of Massachusetts and of the Statutes has been carefully compared with the rolls by the editors personally. In the necessary haste in which the Statutes were engrossed upon parchment during the last part of the special session, some errors appear to have been made therein. These have been noted by brackets, thus [], enclosing in Roman letters, like the body of the text, any omitted word or words which should have been engrossed upon the roll, and in Italics any erroneous or superfluous word or words found there; but this does not apply to cases where brackets are used in forms.

The marginal references to the statutes and decisions are taken chiefly from the commissioners' report; the references to the acts of the legislature of 1859, and to the later volumes of Gray's Reports, and a few other references having been added. The editors have attempted to connect together, by cross references in the margin, many of the provisions of law relating to the same subject.

A list of general acts passed subsequently to the passage of the Revised Statutes and expressly repealed before the passage of the General Statutes, with references to the repealing acts or sections, has been added, as a useful appendage to chapter 182, in order that the fact and time of the repeal of many laws not enumerated in that chapter may be more easily ascertained.

In compliance with chapter 138. of the resolves of 1859, a Glossary has been added, which is made rather for popular than for professional use, according to the supposed object of the resolve.

Much care and labor have been devoted to the Index, and it is believed that it will be found more full than that to any former edition of the laws of this commonwealth.

The editors trust that the short time allowed for printing, the volume and for preparing the Glossary and Index will be deemed a sufficient excuse for any errors or imperfections which may be discovered in their editorial labors.

GEORGE P. SANGER.

The end of the institution, maintenance and administration of government, is to secure the existence of the body politic, to protect it, and to furnish the individuals who compose it, with the power of enjoying in safety and tranquillity, their natural rights, and the blessings of life: and whenever these great objects are not obtained, the people have a right to alter the government, and to take measures necessary for their safety, prosperity and happiness.

The body politic is formed by a voluntary association of individuals: it is a social compact, by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good. It is the duty of the people, therefore, in framing a constitution of government, to provide for an equitable mode of making laws, as well as for an impartial interpretation, and a faithful execution of them; that every man may, at all times, find his security in them.

We, therefore, the people of Massachusetts, acknowledging, with grateful hearts, the goodness of the great Legislator of the universe, in affording us, in the course of his providence, an opportunity, deliberately and peaceably, without fraud, violence or surprise, of entering into an original, explicit, and solemn compact with each other; and of forming a new constitution of civil government, for ourselves and posterity; and devoutly imploring His direction in so interesting a design, do agree upon, ordain and establish, the following Declaration of Rights, and Frame of Government, as the CONSTITUTION OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Objects of government.

Body politic, how formed. Its nature.

PART THE FIRST.

A Declaration of the Rights of the Inhabitants of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Equality and
of all men.

ART. I. All men are born free and equal, and have certain natural, essential, and unalienable rights; among which may be reckoned the right of enjoying and defending their lives and liberties; that of acquiring, possessing, and protecting property; in fine, that of seeking and obtaining their safety and happiness.

Right and duty of public religious worship.
Protection
therein.
2 Cush. 104.

II. It is the right as well as the duty of all men in society, publicly, and at stated seasons to worship the SUPREME BEING, the great Creator and Preserver of the universe. And no subject shall be hurt, molested, or restrained, in his person, liberty, or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; or for his religious profession or sentiments; provided he doth not disturb the public peace, or obstruct others in their religious worship.

Amendment,
Art. XI. substituted for this.

Legislature empowered to compel provision for public worship;

III. As the happiness of a people, and the good order and preservation of civil government, essentially depend upon piety, religion and morality; and as these cannot be generally diffused through a community, but by the institution of the public worship of God, and of public instructions in piety, religion and morality: Therefore, to promote their happiness and to secure the good order and preservation of their government, the people of this commonwealth have a right to invest their legislature with power to authorize and require, and the legislature shall, from time to time, authorize and require, the several towns, parishes, precincts, and other bodies politic, or religious societies, to make suitable provision at their own expense, for the institution of the public worship of God, and for the support and maintenance of public protestant teachers of piety, religion and morality, in all cases where such provision shall not be made voluntarily.

and to enjoin at tendance thereon.

And the people of this commonwealth have also a right to, and do, invest their legislature with authority to enjoin upon all the subjects an attendance upon the instructions of the public teachers aforesaid, at stated times and seasons, if there be any on whose instructions they can conscientiously and conveniently attend.

Exclusive right of electing religious teachers secured.

Provided notwithstanding, that the several towns, parishes, precincts, and other bodies politic, or religious societies, shall, at all times, have the exclusive right of electing their public teachers, and of contracting with them for their support and maintenance.

Option as to whom parochial taxes may be paid, unless, &c.

And all moneys, paid by the subject to the support of public worship, and of the public teachers aforesaid, shall, if he require it, be uniformly applied to the support of the public teacher or teachers of his own religious sect or denomination, provided there be any on whose instructions he attends; otherwise it may be paid towards the support of the teacher or teachers of the parish or precinct in which the said moneys are raised.

All denominations equally protected.
Subordination of one sect to another prohibited.
Right of self-government secured.

And every denomination of christians, demeaning themselves peaceably, and as good subjects of the commonwealth, shall be equally under the protection of the law: and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law.]

IV. The people of this commonwealth have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves, as a free, sovereign and independent state; and do, and forever hereafter shall, exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction, and right, which is not, or may not hereafter, be by them expressly delegated to the United States of America, in Congress assembled.

Accountability
of all officers,
&c.

V. All power residing originally in the people, and being derived from them, the several magistrates and officers of government, vested with authority, whether legislative, executive, or judicial, are their substitutes and agents, and are at all times accountable to them.

Services rendered to the public being the only title to peculiar privileges, hereditary offices are absurd and unnatural.

VI. No man, nor corporation, or association of men, have any other title to obtain advantages, or particular and exclusive privileges, distinct from those of the community, than what arises from the consideration of services rendered to the public; and this title being in nature neither hereditary, nor transmissible to children, or descendants, or relations by blood, the idea of a man born a magistrate, lawgiver, or judge, is absurd and unnatural.

VII. Government is instituted for the common good; for the protection, safety, prosperity and happiness of the people; and not for the profit, honor, or private interest of any one man, family or class of men: Therefore the people alone have an incontestable, unalienable, and inalienable right to institute government; and to reform, alter, or totally change the same, when their protection, safety, prosperity and happiness require it.

Objects of government; right of people to institute and change it.

VIII. In order to prevent those, who are vested with authority, from becoming oppressors, the people have a right, at such periods and in such manner as they shall establish by their frame of government, to cause their public officers to return to private life; and to fill up vacant places by certain and regular elections and appointments.

Right of people to secure rotation in office.

IX. All elections ought to be free; and all the inhabitants of this commonwealth, having such qualifications as they shall establish by their frame of government, have an equal right to elect officers, and to be elected, for public employments.

All, having the qualifications prescribed, equally eligible to office.

X. Each individual of the society has a right to be protected by it in the enjoyment of his life, liberty and property, according to standing laws. He is obliged, consequently, to contribute his share to the expense of this protection; to give his personal service, or an equivalent, when necessary: but no part of the property of any individual, can, with justice, be taken from him, or applied to public uses, without his own consent, or that of the representative body of the people. In fine, the people of this commonwealth are not controllable by any other laws than those to which their constitutional representative body have given their consent. And whenever the public exigencies require, that the property of any individual should be appropriated to public uses, he shall receive a reasonable compensation therefor.

Private property not to be taken for public uses without, &c.
Remedies by recourse to the law, to be free, complete and prompt.

XI. Every subject of the commonwealth ought to find a certain remedy, by having recourse to the laws, for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property, or character. He ought to obtain right and justice freely, and without being obliged to purchase it; completely, and without any denial; promptly, and without delay; conformably to the laws.

XII. No subject shall be held to answer for any crimes or offence, until the same is fully and plainly, substantially and formally, described to him; or be compelled to accuse, or furnish evidence against himself. And every subject shall have a right to produce all proofs, that may be favorable to him; to meet the witnesses against him face to face, and to be fully heard in his defence by himself, or his counsel, at his election. And no subject shall be arrested, imprisoned, despoiled, or deprived of his property, immunities, or privileges, put out of the protection of the law, exiled, or deprived of his life, liberty, or estate, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land.

8 Gray, 329, 378.
Crimes to be proved in the vicinity.

XIII. In criminal prosecutions, the verification of facts in the vicinity where they happen, is one of the greatest securities of the life, liberty, and property of the citizen.

XIV. Every subject has a right to be secure from all unreasonable searches, and seizures, of his person, his houses, his papers, and all his possessions. All warrants, therefore, are contrary to this right, if the cause or foundation of them be not previously supported by oath or affirmation, and if the order in the warrant to a civil officer, to make search in suspected places, or to arrest one or more suspected persons, or to seize their property, be not accompanied with a special designation unless, &c.

XV. In all controversies concerning property, and in all suits between two or more persons, except in cases in which it has heretofore been otherways used and practised, the parties have a right to a trial by jury; and this method of procedure shall be held sacred, unless, in causes arising on the high seas, and such as relate to mariners' wages, the legislature shall hereafter find it necessary to alter it.

XVI. The liberty of the press is essential to the security of freedom in a state: it ought not, therefore, to be restrained in this commonwealth.

XVII. The people have a right to keep and to bear arms for the common defence. And as, in time of peace, armies are dangerous to liberty, they ought not to be maintained without the consent of the legislature; and the military power shall always be held in an exact subordination to the civil authority, and be governed by it.

XVIII. A frequent recurrence to the fundamental principles of the constitution, and a constant adherence to those of piety, justice, moderation, temperance, industry, and frugality, are absolutely necessary to preserve the advantages of liberty, and to maintain a free government. The people ought, consequently, to have a particular attention to all those principles, in the choice of their officers and representatives: and they have a right to require of their lawgivers and magistrates, an exact and constant observance of them, in the formation and execution of the laws necessary for the good administration of the commonwealth.

XIX. The people have a right, in an orderly and peaceable manner, to assemble to consult upon the common good: give instructions to their representatives, and to request of the legislative body, by the way of addresses, petitions, or remonstrances, redress of the wrongs done them, and of the grievances they suffer.

XX. The power of suspending the laws, or the execution of the laws, ought never to be exercised but by the legislature, or by authority derived from it, to be exercised in such particular cases only as the legislature shall expressly provide for.

XXI. The freedom of deliberation, speech and debate, in either house of the legislature, is so essential to the rights of the people, that it cannot be the foundation of any accusation or prosecution, action or complaint, in any other court or place whatsoever.

XXII. The legislature ought frequently to assemble for the redress of grievances, for correcting, strengthening and confirming the laws, and for making new laws, as the common good may require.

XXIII. No subsidy, charge, tax, impost, or duties, ought to be established, fixed, laid, or levied, under any pretext whatsoever, without the consent of the people or their representatives in the legislature.

XXIV. Laws made to punish for actions done before the existence of such laws, and which have not been declared crimes by preceding laws, are unjust, oppressive, and inconsistent with the fundamental principles of a free government.

XXV. No subject ought, in any case, or in any time, to be declared guilty of treason or felony by the legislature.

XXVI. No magistrate or court of law, shall demand excessive bail or sureties, impose excessive fines, or inflict cruel or unusual punishments.

XXVII. In time of peace, no soldier ought to be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; and in time of war, such quarters ought not to be made but by the civil magistrate, in a manner ordained by the legislature.

XXVIII. No person can in any case be subject to law-martial, or to any penalties or pains, by virtue of that law, except those employed in the army or navy, and except the militia in actual service, but by authority of the legislature.

XXIX. It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws, and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as free, impartial and independent as the lot of humanity will admit. It is, therefore, not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, and of every citizen, that the judges of the supreme judicial court should hold their offices as long as they behave themselves well; and that they should have honorable salaries ascertained and established by standing laws.

Judges of supreme judicial court.

Tenure of their office.

Salaries.

XXX. In the government of this commonwealth, the legislative department shall never exercise the executive and judicial powers, or either of them: the executive shall never exercise the legislative and judicial powers, or either of them: the judicial shall never exercise the legislative and executive powers, or either of them: to the end it may be a government of laws and not of men.

Separation of executive, judicial, and legislative departments.

PART THE SECOND.

The Frame of Government.

Any town having less than three hundred ratable polls shall be represented thus: The whole number of ratable polls, at the last preceding decennial census of polls, shall be multiplied by ten, and the product divided by three hundred, and such town may elect one representative as many years within ten years, as three hundred is contained in the product aforesaid.

Any city or town having ratable polls enough to elect one or more representatives, with any number of polls beyond the necessary number, may be represented as to that surplus number by multiplying such surplus number by ten and dividing the product by four hundred and fifty; and such city or town may elect one additional representative as many years within the ten years as four hundred and fifty is contained in the product aforesaid.

Any two or more of the several towns and districts may, by consent of a majority of the legal voters present at a legal meeting, in each of said towns and districts respectively called for that purpose, and held previous to the first day of July in the year in which the decennial census of polls shall be taken, form themselves into a representative district, to continue until the next decennial census of polls, for the election of a representative, or representatives, and such district shall have all the rights, in regard to representation, which would belong to a town containing the same number of ratable polls.

The governor and council shall ascertain and determine within the months of July and August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-seven, according to the foregoing principles, the number of representatives, which each city, town and

All the provisions of the existing constitution inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, are hereby wholly annulled.]

[ART. XIII. A census of the inhabitants of each city and town, on the first day of May, shall be taken, and returned into the secretary's office, on or before the last day of June, of the year one thousand eight hundred and forty, and of every tenth year thereafter, which census shall determine the apportionment of senators and representatives for the term of ten years.

The several senatorial districts now existing, shall be permanent. The senate shall consist of forty members; and in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty, and every tenth year thereafter, the governor and council shall assign the number of senators to be chosen in each district, according to the number of inhabitants in the same. But, in all cases, at least one senator shall be assigned to each district.

The members of the house of representatives shall be apportioned in the following manner: Every town or city containing twelve hundred inhabitants, may elect one representative; and two thousand four hundred inhabitants shall be the mean increasing number which shall entitle it to an additional representative.

Every town containing less than twelve hundred inhabitants, shall be entitled to elect a representative as many times, within ten years, as the number one hundred and sixty is contained in the number of the inhabitants of said town. Such towns may also elect one representative for the year in which the valuation of estates within the commonwealth, shall be settled.

Any two or more of the several towns may, by consent of a majority of the legal voters present at a legal meeting, in each of said towns respectively, called for that purpose, and held before the first day of August, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty, and every tenth year thereafter, form themselves into a representative district, to continue for the term of ten years; and such district shall have all the rights in regard to representation, which would belong to a town containing the same number of inhabitants.

The number of inhabitants which shall entitle a town to elect one representative, and the mean increasing number, which shall entitle a town or city to elect more than one, and also the number by which the population of towns, not entitled to a representative every year is to be divided, shall be increased respectively, by one-tenth of the number above mentioned, whenever the population of the commonwealth shall have increased to seven hundred and seventy thousand, and for every additional increase of seventy thousand inhabitants, the same addition of one-tenth shall be made respectively to the said numbers above mentioned.

In the year of each decennial census, the governor and council shall, before the first day of September, apportion the number of representatives which each city, town, and representative district is entitled to elect, and ascertain how many years within ten years, any town may elect a representative, which is not entitled to elect one every year; and the governor shall cause the same to be published forthwith.

Nine councillors shall be annually chosen from among the people at large, on the first Wednesday of January, or as soon thereafter as may be, by the joint ballot of the senators and representatives assembled in one room, who shall, as soon as may be, in like manner, fill up any vacancies that may happen in the council, by death, resignation or otherwise. No person shall be elected a councillor, who has not been an inhabitant of this commonwealth for the term of five years immediately preceding his election; and not more than one councillor shall be chosen from any one senatorial district in the commonwealth.]

No possession of a freehold or of any other estate shall be required as a qualification for holding a seat in either branch of the general court, or in the executive council.

ART. XIV. In all elections of civil officers by the people of this commonwealth, whose election is provided for by the constitution, the person having the highest number of votes shall be deemed and declared to be elected.

ART. XV. The meeting for the choice of governor, lieutenant-governor, senators and representatives, shall be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, annually; but in case of a failure to elect representatives on that day, a second meeting shall be holden for that purpose on the fourth Monday of the same month of November.

ART. XVI. Eight councillors shall be annually chosen by the inhabitants of this commonwealth, qualified to vote for governor. The election of councillors shall be determined by the same rule that is required in the election of governor. The legislature, at its first session after this amendment shall have been adopted, and at its first session after the next state census shall have been taken, and at its first session after each decennial state census thereafterwards, shall divide the commonwealth into eight districts of contiguous territory, each containing a number of inhabitants as nearly equal as practicable, without dividing any town or ward of a city, and each entitled to elect one councillor: provided, however, that if, at any time, the constitution shall provide for the division of the commonwealth into forty senatorial districts, then the legislature shall so arrange the councillor districts that each district shall consist of five contiguous senatorial districts, as they shall be, from time to time, established by the legislature. No person shall be eligible to the office of councillor who has not been an inhabitant of the commonwealth for the term of five years, immediately preceding his election. The day and manner of the election, the return of the votes, and the declaration of the said elections, shall be the same as are required in the election of governor. Whenever there shall be a failure to elect the full number of councillors, the vacancies shall be filled in the same manner as is required for filling vacancies in the senate; and vacancies occasioned by death, removal from the state, or otherwise, shall be filled in like manner, as soon as may be after such vacancies shall have happened. And that there may be no delay in the organization of the government on the first Wednesday of January, the governor, with at least five councillors for the time being, shall, as soon as may be, examine the returned copies of the records for the election of governor, lieutenant-governor, and councillors; and ten days before the said first Wednesday in January he shall issue his summons to such persons as appear to be chosen, to attend on that day to be qualified accordingly; and the secretary shall lay the returns before the senate and house of representatives on the said first Wednesday in January, to be by them examined; and in case of the election of either of said officers, the choice shall be by them declared and published; but in case there shall be no election of either of said officers, the legislature shall proceed to fill such vacancies in the manner provided in the constitution for the choice of such officers.

The qualification of the voters, the manner of the election, the return of the votes, and the declaration of the election, shall be such as are required in the election of governor. No person shall be eligible to either of said offices unless he shall have been an inhabitant of this commonwealth five years next preceding his election or appointment.

ART. XVIII. All moneys raised by taxation in the towns and cities for the support of public schools, and all moneys which may be appropriated by the state for the support of common schools, shall be applied to, and expended in, no other schools than those which are conducted according to law, under the order and superintendence of the authorities of the town or city in which the money is to be expended; and such moneys shall never be appropriated to any religious sect for the maintenance exclusively of its own school.

No person shall have the right to vote, or be eligible to office under the constitution of this commonwealth, who shall not be able to read the constitution in the English language, and write his name: provided, however, that the provisions of this amendment shall not apply to any person prevented by a physical disability from complying with its requisitions, nor to any person who now has the right to vote, nor to any persons who shall be sixty years of age or upwards at the time this amendment shall take effect.

ART. XXI. A census of the legal voters of each city and town, on the first day of May, shall be taken and returned into the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, on or before the last day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven; and a census of the inhabitants of each city and town, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and of every tenth year thereafter. In the census aforesaid, a special enumeration shall be made of the legal voters; and in each city, said enumeration shall specify the number of such legal voters aforesaid, residing in each ward of such city. The enumeration aforesaid shall determine the apportionment of representatives for the periods between the taking of the census.

The house of representatives shall consist of two hundred and forty members, which shall be apportioned, by the legislature, at its first session after the return of each enumeration as aforesaid, to the several counties of the commonwealth, equally, as nearly as may be, according to their relative numbers of legal voters, as ascertained by the next preceding special enumeration; and the town of Cohasset, in the county of Norfolk, shall, for this purpose, as well as in the formation of districts, as hereinafter provided, be considered a part of the county of Plymouth: and it shall be the duty of the secretary of the commonwealth, to certify, as soon as may be after it is determined by the legislature, the number of representatives to which each county shall be entitled, to the board authorized to divide each county into representative districts. The mayor and aldermen of the city of Boston, the county commissioners of other counties than Suffolk, — or in lieu of the mayor and aldermen of the city of Boston, or of the county commissioners in each county other than Suffolk, such board of special commissioners in each county, to be elected by the people of the county, or of the towns therein, as may for that purpose be provided by law, — shall, on the first Tuesday of August next after each assignment of representatives to each county, assemble at a shire town of their respective counties, and proceed, as soon as may be, to divide the same into representative districts of contiguous territory, so as to apportion the representation assigned to each county equally, as nearly as may be, according to the relative number of legal voters in the several districts of each county; and such districts shall be so formed that no town or ward of a city shall be divided therefor, nor shall any district be made which shall be entitled to elect more than three representatives. Every representative, for one year at least next preceding his election, shall have been an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen, and shall cease to represent such district when he shall cease to be an inhabitant of the commonwealth. The districts in each county shall be numbered by the board creating the same, and a description of each, with the numbers thereof and the number of legal voters therein, shall be returned by the board, to the secretary of the commonwealth, the county treasurer of each county, and to the clerk of every town in each district, to be filed and kept in their respective offices. The manner of calling and conducting the meetings for the choice of representatives, and of ascertaining their election, shall be prescribed by law. Not less than one hundred members of the house of representatives shall constitute a quorum for doing business; but a less number may organize temporarily, adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members.

In the census aforesaid, a special enumeration shall be made of the legal voters, and in each city said enumeration shall specify the number of such legal voters aforesaid, residing in each ward of such city. The enumeration aforesaid shall determine the apportionment of senators for the periods between the taking of the census. The senate shall consist of forty members. The general court shall, at its first session after each next preceding special enumeration, divide the commonwealth into forty districts of adjacent territory, each district to contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of legal voters, according to the enumeration aforesaid: provided, however, that no town or ward of a city shall be divided therefor; and such districts shall be formed, as nearly as may be, without uniting two counties, or parts of two or more counties, into one district. Each district shall elect one senator, who shall have been an inhabitant of this commonwealth five years at least immediately preceding his election, and at the time of his election shall be an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen; and he shall cease to represent such senatorial district when he shall cease to be an inhabitant of the commonwealth. Not less than sixteen senators shall constitute a quorum for doing business; but a less number may organize temporarily, adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members.

SECT. 9. The presiding officers at meetings held for the election of town or other officers, shall be provided with a complete list of the persons qualified to vote at such election; and no person shall vote at an election whose name has not been previously placed on such list, nor until the presiding officers find and check his name thereon.

SECT. 10. The selectmen shall not be answerable for refusing the vote of any person whose name is not on the list of voters, unless such person before offering his vote furnishes them with sufficient evidence of his having the legal qualifications of a voter at such meeting, and requests them to insert his name on said list.

SECT. 11. The moderator of a town meeting shall receive the votes of all persons whose names are borne on the list of voters as certified by the selectmen; and shall not be answerable for refusing the vote of a person whose name is not on said list.

SECT. 12. No vote shall be received by the presiding officers at any election provided for in this chapter, unless presented for deposit in the ballot box by the voter in person in a sealed envelope, or open and unfolded, and so that such officers can know but one ballot is presented.

SECT. 13. Votes for different persons for the same office found in one envelope shall not be counted, and if more than one vote for the same person for the same office is found in one envelope, but one such vote shall be counted, and no vote shall be counted which does not clearly indicate in writing the office for which the person voted for is designed, except when but one officer is voted for.

SECT. 14. In all elections of civil officers by the people, the person or persons having the highest number of votes shall be deemed and declared to be elected; but no persons receiving the same number of votes shall be deemed to be elected, if thereby a greater number would be elected than required by law.

SECT. 15. The votes in elections for national, state, county, and district officers, shall be received, sorted, and counted, by the selectmen, and by the ward officers, and public declaration made thereof in open town and ward meetings. The names of persons voted for, the number of votes received for each person, and the title of the office for which he is proposed, shall be entered in words at length by the town and ward clerks in their records. The ward clerks shall forthwith deliver to the city clerks certified copies of such records, who shall forthwith enter the same in the city records.

SECT. 16. The mayor and aldermen and the clerk of each city shall forthwith after an election examine the returns made by the returning officers of each ward in such city, and if any error appears therein they shall forthwith notify said ward officers thereof, who shall forthwith make a new and additional return, under oath, in conformity to truth, which additional return, whether made upon notice or by such officers without notice, shall be received by the mayor and aldermen or city clerk at any time before the expiration of the day preceding that on which by law they are required to make their returns or to declare the results of the election in said city; and all original and additional returns so made shall be examined by the mayor and aldermen and made part of their returns of the results of such election. In counting the votes in an election no returns shall be rejected when the votes given for each candidate can be ascertained.

SECT. 17. City and town clerks shall within ten days from the day of an election for governor, lieutenant-governor, councillors, senators, secretary, treasurer and receiver-general, auditor, attorney-general, representatives in congress, commissioners of insolvency, sheriffs, registers of probate and insolvency, district-attorneys, or clerks of the courts, transmit copies of the records of the votes, attested by them, certified by the mayor and aldermen or selectmen, and sealed up, to the secretary of the commonwealth; they shall in like manner within ten days after an election for county treasurer or register of deeds, transmit such copies of the records of the votes to the county commissioners of their several counties; and within seven days after an election for county commissioners, transmit such copies of the records of the votes to the clerks of the courts for their several counties; but in Suffolk the return of votes for register of deeds shall be made to the board of aldermen of Boston, and in Chelsea, North Chelsea, and Winthrop, the returns of votes for county commissioners shall be made to the clerk of the courts for the county of Middlesex. If such copy is received by the secretary before the day on which by law the returns are to be opened and the votes counted, and if upon opening said copy by the governor and council, the legislature, or any person authorized so to do, the original return is found in substantial conformity therewith, it shall not be rejected because of informality.

SECT. 20. The secretary shall annually furnish to the several clerks of the cities and towns blank forms and envelopes for all returns of votes required to be made to his office, with such printed directions on the envelopes as he deems necessary for the guidance and direction of such officers in making the returns according to law.

SECT. 23. The governor shall in the presence of at least five councillors make and subscribe a certificate of the examination of the returns of votes for governor, lieutenant-governor, and councillors, required by article sixteen of the amendments of the constitution, and of the result of said examination.

SECT. 24. SECT. 36. The assessors, or other persons empowered to assess the taxes in a city or town, shall, at the close of said valuation list, subscribe and take the following oath:

"We, (the assessors, or mayor and aldermen, as the case may be, of) do hereby solemnly swear that the foregoing list is a full and true list of the names of all persons known to us, who are liable to taxation in , (here insert the name of the city or town,) during the present year, and that the real and personal estate contained in said list, and assessed upon each individual in said list, is a full and accurate assessment upon all the property of each individual, liable to taxation, at its full and fair cash value, according to our best knowledge and belief."

SECT. 37. Any assessor or other person assessing taxes in a city or town, who omits to take and subscribe the oath prescribed in the preceding section, shall be punished by a fine of ten dollars; but the omission to take and subscribe said oath shall not prevent the collection of a tax otherwise legally assessed.

SECT. 38. The assessors shall, within a reasonable time, commit said tax list with their warrant to the collector, or if no collector is chosen to a constable, or if there is no constable to the sheriff or his deputy, for collection.

SECT. 39. The warrant shall specify the duties of the collector as prescribed by law in the collection of taxes, the times when and the persons to whom he shall pay them in, shall be substantially in the form heretofore used, and need not be under seal.

SECT. 40. When a warrant issued for the collection of taxes is lost or destroyed, the assessors may issue a new warrant therefor, which shall have the same force and effect as the original warrant.

SECT. 41. Towns, at their annual meeting, and city councils of cities may allow a discount of such sums as they think expedient to persons making voluntary payment of their taxes within such periods of time as they prescribe. In such case the collectors shall make such discount accordingly.

SECT. 42. When such discount is allowed, the assessors, at the time of committing their warrant to the collector, shall post up in one or more public places within the city or town, notice of the rates of discount.

SECT. 43. A person aggrieved by the taxes assessed upon him, may apply to the assessors for an abatement thereof; and, if he makes it appear that he is taxed at more than his just proportion, they shall make a reasonable abatement. See 1865, 121. 8 Gray, 609. 18 Gray, 321. 12 Allen, 612.

SECT. 44. If legal costs have accrued before making such abatement, the person applying for the abatement shall pay the same.

SECT. 45. If the assessors refuse to make an abatement to a person, he may, within one month thereafter, make complaint thereof to the county commissioners by filing the same with their clerk, and if upon a hearing it appears that the complainant is overrated, the commissioners shall make such an abatement as they deem reasonable.

SECT. 46. No person shall have an abatement unless he has filed with the assessors a list subscribed by him of his estate liable to taxation, and made oath that it is full and accurate according to his best knowledge and belief. When such list is not filed within the time

SECT. 7. If a person refuses or neglects to pay his tax, the collector shall levy the same by distress or seizure and sale of his goods, including any share or interest he may have as a stockholder in a corporation incorporated under authority of this commonwealth, and excepting the following goods:

The tools or implements necessary for his trade or occupation; beasts of the plough necessary for the cultivation of his improved lands; military arms, utensils for house-keeping necessary for upholding life, and bedding and apparel necessary for himself and family.

SECT. 8. The collector shall keep the goods distrained, at the expense of the owner, for four days at least, and shall, within seven days after the seizure, sell the same by public auction, for payment of the tax and charges of keeping and sale, having given notice of the sale by posting up a notification thereof in some public place in the city or town, forty-eight hours at least before the sale.

SECT. 13. If a person refuses or neglects for fourteen days after demand to pay his tax, and the collector cannot find sufficient goods upon which it may be levied, he may take the body of such person and commit him to prison, there to remain until he pays the tax and charges of commitment and imprisonment, or is discharged by order of law.

SECT. 14. When the collector commits a person to prison, he shall give the keeper thereof an attested copy of the warrant, with a certificate thereon, under the hand of the collector, setting forth the sum which such person is to pay as his tax, with the cost of taking and committing him, and that upon his having neglected payment for fourteen days, or otherwise, as the case may be, and for want of goods whereof to make distress, he has taken his body.

SECT. 15. When a person committed to prison for the non-payment of taxes is unable to pay the same, he shall be entitled to his discharge in like manner as persons committed on execution. The notice required in such case to be given to the creditor, may be given to either of the assessors or the collector by whom the party was committed. And the assessors and collector, or any of them, may appear and do all things which a creditor might do in case of arrest on execution.

If it is required by law that the order for such military duty shall in such case be given by any officer superior to the commanding officer of a company, then the orders of such superior officer, and all intermediate orders of officers transmitting the same to the commanding officer of the company shall be proved, and that the persons purporting by said orders to be such officers, are such; for which purpose, it shall be sufficient to produce the transmitted written or printed copies of such orders, and the regimental, battalion, or other last order, transmitting the same to the commanding officer of the company; to prove the signature of the proper officer to such regimental, battalion, or other last order, transmitting the same; and to prove that all the officers above mentioned are reputed to be such officers and act as such.

SECT. 34. Before a district is constituted and organized, a petition shall be presented to the town at a legal meeting, stating the limits of the proposed district and requesting the town to raise taxes for the establishment and maintenance of a sufficient fire department for the reasonable protection from fire of the inhabitants and property within said limits. If the town refuses or neglects so to do, the inhabitants of the proposed district may proceed to constitute and organize the same and to establish a fire department therein as hereinafter provided.

SECT. 35. The selectmen upon the application in writing of not less than seven freeholders, inhabitants of such proposed district, setting forth the limits thereof, and requiring them to notify a meeting of the inhabitants thereof duly qualified to vote in town affairs, for the purpose of considering the expediency of organizing such district and establishing a fire department, shall forthwith give notice to such inhabitants, in the manner of notifying town meetings, to assemble at some suitable place within the district for said purpose, the substance of which shall be expressed in the notification. If the selectmen refuse or neglect to notify such meeting, any justice of the peace in the county may notify the same.

SECT. 36. If at any such meeting the voters present determine to organize such district, they shall choose a clerk, who shall be sworn to keep a true record of the proceedings of all meetings and to perform all the duties of clerk so long as he holds the office. He may be removed by the district, or may resign, and in case of a vacancy another may be chosen.

SECT. 37. The district at such meeting may vote to establish a fire department to consist of a chief engineer, and as many assistant-engineers, enginemmen, hosemen, and hook and ladder men, as they may deem necessary, not exceeding for each suction engine, seventy-five, for each common engine, thirty-five, for each one hundred and fifty feet of leading hose kept for use within the district, five and not exceeding twenty-five hook and ladder men; each of said officers and members shall be furnished with a certificate under the hands of the chief engineer and clerk, declaring his station in the department.

SECT. 38. The chief engineer and assistant-engineers shall be chosen by the district and shall be sworn.

SECT. 39. Meetings of the district shall be called by the clerk when requested in writing by the chief engineer, or two assistant-engineers, or seven voters of the district; and he shall give notice of the same by posting written notifications in at least six public places in the district not less than seven days prior to the meeting, or by publishing the same in a newspaper, if one is printed in the town where the district is situated, which notifications shall briefly state the purposes of the meeting. At each of the meetings a moderator shall be chosen, who shall have the powers of the moderator of a town meeting. After the choice of a clerk, he shall preside at subsequent meetings with like powers until a moderator is chosen.

SECT. 40. The board of engineers may from time to time make and publish rules and regulations for their own government, and that of other members of the department, and of persons present at fires, and for regulating or prohibiting the carrying of fire or ignited substances in or through the streets or ways of the district, and prescribe penalties for the violation thereof, not exceeding twenty dollars for each offence. The board may appoint enginemen, hosemen, hook and ladder men, remove them, and fill vacancies in the companies.

SECT. 41. Engineers shall have and exercise the same powers and authority relative to the extinguishment of fires, and the demolishing of buildings for that purpose within the district, as firewards of towns; and the inhabitants of districts shall be liable for acts done by such engineers, or by their orders, in the same manner as towns are liable for acts done by firewards.

Such districts may, at meetings called for the purpose, raise money for the purchase of engines and other articles necessary for the extinguishment of fires, for the purchase of land and erection and repairs of necessary buildings, and other incidental expenses of the fire department. They shall choose a prudential committee, who shall have the care, custody, and management, of the money so raised, and shall expend the same for the purposes prescribed by votes of the district; and such committee shall be accountable to the district for such money received by them, which may maintain a suit therefor in the name of the inhabitants thereof.

The assessors, treasurer, and collector, of any town in which such district is organized shall have the powers and perform the duties in reference to the assessment and collection of the money voted by the fire district, as they have and exercise in reference to the assessment, collection, and abatement, of town taxes, but the sums so voted shall be assessed upon the property real and personal within the district.

SECTION 1. Fences four feet high and in good repair, consisting of rails, timber, boards, or stone, and brooks, rivers, ponds, creeks, ditches, and hedges, or other things which the fence viewers within whose jurisdiction the same shall lie shall consider equivalent thereto, shall be deemed legal and sufficient fences.

SECT. 2. The respective occupants of lands enclosed with fences, shall so long as both parties improve the same keep up and maintain partition fences between their own and the next adjoining enclosures, in equal shares.

SECT. 3. If a party refuses or neglects to repair or rebuild a partition fence which he ought to maintain, the aggrieved party may complain to two or more fence viewers of the place, who after due notice to each party shall survey the same, and if they determine that the fence is insufficient, they shall signify the same in writing to the delinquent occupant, and direct him to repair or rebuild the same within such time as they judge reasonable, not exceeding fifteen days; and if the fence shall not be repaired or rebuilt accordingly, the complainant may make or repair the same.

SECT. 4. When a deficient fence built up or repaired by a complainant as provided in the preceding section is after due notice to each party adjudged sufficient by two or more of the fence viewers, and the value thereof with their fees ascertained by a certificate under their hands, the complainant may demand, either of the occupant or owner of the land where the fence was deficient, double the sum so ascertained; and in case of neglect or refusal to pay the same so due, for one month after demand, he may recover the same with interest at one per cent. a month, in an action of contract.

SECT. 5. When a controversy arises about the rights of the respective occupants in partition fences and their obligation to maintain the same, either party may apply to two or more fence viewers of the places where the lands lie, who after due notice to each party may in writing assign to each his share thereof, and direct the time within which each party shall erect or repair his share, in the manner before provided; which assignment, being recorded in the city or town clerk's office, shall be binding upon the parties and upon the succeeding occupants of the lands; who shall thereafter maintain their respective parts of said fence.

SECT. 6. If a party refuses or neglects to erect and maintain the part of a fence assigned to him by the fence viewers, the same may in the manner before provided be erected and maintained by any aggrieved party; and he shall be entitled to double the value thereof ascertained and recovered in the manner aforesaid.

SECT. 7. When in a controversy between adjoining occupants as to their respective rights in a partition fence, it appears to the fence viewers that either of the occupants had before any complaint made to them voluntarily erected the whole fence, or more than his just share of the same, or otherwise become proprietor thereof, the other occupant shall pay the value of so much thereof as may be assigned to him to repair or maintain, to be ascertained and recovered as provided in this chapter.

SECT. 8. Partition fences shall be kept in good repair throughout the year, unless the occupants of the lands on both sides shall otherwise agree.

SECT. 9. When lands of different persons which are required to be fenced, are bounded upon or divided from each other, by a river, brook, pond, or creek, if the occupant of the land on one side refuses or neglects to join with the occupant of the land on the other side in making a partition fence on the one side or the other, or shall disagree respecting the same, then two or more fence viewers of the place or places wherein such lands lie, on application made to them, shall forthwith view such river, brook, pond, or creek; and if they determine the same not to answer the purpose of a sufficient fence, and that it is impracticable to fence on the true boundary line without unreasonable expense, they shall, after giving notice to the parties to be present, determine how, or on which side thereof, the fence shall be set up and maintained, or whether partly on the one side and partly on the other side, as to them shall appear just, and shall reduce their determination to writing; and if either of the parties refuses or neglects to make and maintain his part of the fence according to the determination of the fence viewers, the same may be made and maintained as before provided, and the delinquent party shall be subject to the same costs and charges to be recovered in like manner.

SECT. 10. When lands belonging to two persons in severalty have been occupied in common without a partition fence between them, and one of the occupants desires to occupy his part in severalty, and the other occupant refuses or neglects on demand to divide the line where the fence ought to be built, or to build a sufficient fence on his part of the line when divided, the party desiring it may have the same divided and assigned by two or more fence viewers of the same place in the manner provided in this chapter; and the fence viewers may in writing assign a reasonable time, having regard to the season of the year, for making the fence; and if the occupant complained of does not make his part of the fence within the time so assigned, the other party may, after having made up his part of the fence, make up the part of the other, and recover therefor double the expense thereof, together with the fees of the fence viewers, in the manner provided in this chapter.

SECT. 11. Where a division of fence between the owners of improved lands has been made either by fence viewers or under an agreement in writing between the parties, recorded in the office of the clerk of the city or town, the several owners of such lands and their heirs and assigns shall erect and support said fences agreeably to such division; but if a person lays his lands common and determines not to improve any part of the same adjoining the fence divided as aforesaid, and gives six months' notice of his determination to all the adjoining occupants of lands, he shall not be required to keep up or support said fence during the time that his lands lie common and unimproved.

SECT. 12. When one party ceases to improve his land or lays open his enclosure, he shall not take away any part of the partition fence belonging to him and adjoining to the next enclosure, provided the owner or occupant thereof will allow and pay therefor so much as two or more fence viewers in writing determine to be the reasonable value thereof.

SECT. 13. When land which has lain unenclosed is afterwards enclosed or used for depasturing, the occupant or owner thereof shall pay for one-half of each partition fence standing upon the line between the same land and the land of the enclosures of any other occupant or owner, the value thereof to be ascertained in writing (in case they do not agree between themselves,) by two or more of the fence viewers of the same place wherein such partition fence stands; and if such occupant or owner, after the value has been so ascertained, neglects or refuses, for thirty days after demand made, to pay for one-half of the partition fence, the proprietor of the fence may maintain an action of contract for such value, and the costs of ascertaining the same; but the occupant or owner of unenclosed land on the island of Nantucket, used for depasturing only, shall not be subject to the foregoing provisions of this section.

SECT. 14. Where the line upon which a partition fence is to be made or divided is the boundary line of one or more cities or towns, or partly in one and partly in another, a fence viewer shall be taken from each place.

SECT. 15. When a water fence, or fence running into the water, is necessary to be made, the same shall be done in equal shares unless otherwise agreed by the parties; and in case either party refuses or neglects to make or maintain the share to him belonging, similar proceedings shall be had as in other cases of the like kind respecting other fences before mentioned.

SECT. 16. Any fence viewer duly chosen and sworn who when requested unreasonably neglects to view a fence, or to perform any other duties required of him in this chapter, shall forfeit five dollars, to be recovered by action of tort to the use of the place, or on complaint to the use of the commonwealth, and he shall also be liable for all damages to the party injured.

SECT. 17. Each fence viewer shall be paid by the person employing him at the rate of two dollars a day for the time he is so employed; and if such person neglects to pay him within thirty days after the service has been performed, he may recover in an action of tort double the amount of such fees.

POUNDS AND IMPOUNDING OF CATTLE; FIELD DRIVERS.

[See 1869, 386.]

SECT. 18. Each city and town shall at its own expense and in such places therein as the city council of the city or the inhabitants of the town direct, maintain one or more sufficient pounds. A city or town that for three months neglects to provide or maintain a sufficient pound, shall forfeit fifty dollars.

SECT. 19. Whoever wilfully injures a city or town pound, shall be punished by fine not exceeding fifty dollars or by imprisonment in the common jail not exceeding ninety days.

SECT. 20. Each city and town shall annually appoint a suitable keeper of each pound therein.

SECT. 21. Every field driver within his city or town, shall take up at any time, swine, sheep, horses, asses, mules, goats, or neat cattle, going at large in the public highways or townways or on common and unimproved lands, and not under the care of a keeper; and for any such cattle or beasts so going at large on the Lord's day, the field driver or any other inhabitant of the city or town may in an action of tort recover for each beast the same fees which the field driver is entitled to receive for like beasts when distrained and impounded. 18 Gray, 265. 1 Allen, 270.

SECT. 22. When beasts are so taken up and distrained by a field driver, they shall be forthwith impounded in the city or town pound, and the keeper shall furnish them with suitable food and water while they are detained in his custody. 12 Cush. 98, 108 4 Gray, 312.

SECT. 23. The field driver shall be entitled to fifty cents per head for horses, asses, mules, and neat cattle, and ten cents per head for sheep, goats, and swine, so taken up by him, and the pound keeper shall be entitled to four cents per head for the animals so impounded; but if more than ten sheep are taken up at the same time, the fees for all above that number shall be only one-half of the above fees.

SECT. 24. The pound keeper shall not deliver to the owner any beasts so impounded, until the owner pays him his fees, the expense of keeping the beasts, and the fees of the field driver, which latter when received he shall pay to the field driver.

SECT. 25. When a person is injured in his land by sheep, swine, horses, asses, mules, goats, or neat cattle, he may recover his damages in an action of tort against the owner of the beasts, or by distraining the beasts doing the damage, and proceeding therewith as hereinafter directed; but if the beasts were lawfully on the adjoining lands and escape therefrom in consequence of the neglect of the person who suffered the damage to maintain his part of the division fence, the owner of the beasts shall not be liable for such damage.

SECT. 26. The beasts so distrained for doing damage shall be impounded in the city or town pound, or in some suitable place, under the immediate care and inspection of the person who distrained them, and he shall furnish them with suitable food and water while they remain impounded.

SECT. 27. If the beasts are impounded in the city or town pound, the distrainer shall leave with the pound keeper a memorandum in writing under his hand stating the cause of impounding, and the sum that he demands from the owner for the damage done by the beasts, and also for the daily charges of feeding them; and if they are impounded in any other place, he shall give a like memorandum to the owner of the beasts if demanded by him.

SECT. 28. The pound keeper, when the beasts are in his custody, shall not deliver them to the owner until the owner pays him his fees, the sum so demanded by the distrainer for the damages and charges aforesaid, the expense of advertising the beasts if they are advertised, and all other legal costs and expenses.

All such assignments shall be entered in the records; and may be revoked when the board shall think proper.

SECT. 53. before mentioned, shall give instruction in general history, bookkeeping, surveying, geometry, natural philosophy, chemistry, botany, the civil polity of this commonwealth and of the United States, and the Latin language. Such last mentioned school shall be kept for the benefit of all the inhabitants of the town, ten months at least, exclusive of vacations, in each year, and at such convenient place, or alternately at such places, in the town, as the legal voters at their annual meeting determine. And in every town containing four thousand inhabitants, the teacher or teachers of the schools required by this section, shall, in addition to the branches of instruction before required, be competent to give instruction in the Greek and French languages, astronomy, geology, rhetoric, logic, intellectual and moral science, and political economy.

SECT. 3. Two adjacent towns, having each less than five hundred families or householders, may form one high school district, for establishing such a school as is contemplated in the preceding section, when a majority of the legal voters of each town, in meetings called for that purpose, so determine.

SECT. 4. The school committees of the two towns so united shall elect one person from each of their respective boards, and the two so elected shall form the committee for the management and control of such school, with all the powers conferred upon school committees and prudential committees.

SECT. 5. The committee thus formed shall determine the location of the school-house authorized to be built by the towns forming the district, or if the towns do not determine to erect a house, shall authorize the location of such school alternately in the two towns.

SECT. 6. In the erection of a school-house for the permanent location of such school, in the support and maintenance of the school, and in all incidental expenses attending the same, the proportions to be paid by each town, unless otherwise agreed upon, shall be according to its proportion of the county tax.

SECT. 7. Any town may establish and maintain, in addition to the schools required by law to be maintained therein, schools for the education of persons over fifteen years of age; may determine the term or terms of time in each year, and the hours of the day or evening during which said school shall be kept; and appropriate such sums of money as may be necessary for the support thereof.

SECT. 8. When a school is so established, the school committee shall have the same superintendence over it as they have over other schools; and shall determine what branches of learning may be taught therein.

SECT. 9. In every public school, having an average of fifty scholars, the school district or town to which such school belongs shall employ one or more female assistants, unless such district or town, at a meeting called for the purpose, votes to dispense with such assistant.

SECT. 10. It shall be the duty of the president, professors and tutors of the university at Cambridge and of the several colleges, of all preceptors and teachers of academies, and of all other instructors of youth, to exert their best endeavors to impress on the minds of children and youth committed to their care and instruction, the principles of piety and justice, and a sacred regard to truth; love of their country, humanity, and universal benevolence; sobriety, industry, and frugality; chastity, moderation, and temperance; and those other virtues which are the ornament of human society and the basis upon which a republican constitution is founded; and it shall be the duty of such instructors to endeavor to lead their pupils, as their ages and capacities will admit, into a clear understanding of the tendency of the above mentioned virtues, to preserve and perfect a republican constitution and secure the blessings of liberty, as well as to promote their future happiness, and also to point out to them the evil tendency of the opposite vices.

SECT. 11. It shall be the duty of the resident ministers of the gospel, the selectmen, and the school committees, to exert their influence and use their best endeavors that the youth of their towns shall regularly attend the schools established for their instruction.

SECT. 12. The several towns shall, at their annual meetings, or at a regular meeting called for the purpose, raise such sums of money for the support of schools as they judge necessary; which sums shall be assessed and collected in like manner as other town taxes.

SECT. 13. Nothing contained in this chapter shall affect the right of any corporation established in a town, to manage any estate or funds given or obtained for the purpose of supporting schools therein, or in any wise affect such estate or funds.

SECT. 14. A town which refuses or neglects to raise money for the support of schools as required by this chapter, shall forfeit a sum equal to twice the highest sum ever before voted for the support of schools therein. A town which refuses or neglects to choose a school committee to superintend said schools, or to choose prudential committees in the several districts, when it is the duty of the town to choose such prudential committee, shall forfeit a sum not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, to be paid into the treasury of the county.

SECT. 15. Three-fourths of any forfeiture paid into the treasury of the county under the preceding section, shall be paid by the treasurer to the school committee, if any, otherwise to the selectmen of the town from which it is recovered, who shall apportion and appropriate the same to the support of the schools of such town, in the same manner as if it had been regularly raised by the town for that purpose.

SECT. 16. Every town shall, at the annual meeting, choose, by written ballots, a board of school committee, which shall have the general charge and superintendence of all the public schools in town. Said board shall consist of any number of persons divisible by three, which said town has decided to elect, one-third thereof to be elected annually, and continue in office three years. If a town fails or neglects to choose such committee, an election at a subsequent meeting shall be valid.

SECT. 17. If any person elected a member of the school committee, after being duly notified of his election in the manner in which town officers are required to be notified, refuses or neglects to accept said office, or if any member of the board declines further service, or, from change of residence or otherwise, becomes unable to attend to the duties of the board, the remaining members shall, in writing, give notice of the fact to the selectmen of the town, or to the mayor and aldermen of the city, and the two boards shall thereupon, after giving public notice of at least one week, proceed to fill such vacancy; and a majority of the ballots of persons entitled to vote shall be necessary to an election.

SECT. 18. If all the persons elected as members of the school committee, after such notice of their election, refuse or neglect to accept the office, or having accepted, afterwards decline further service, or become unable to attend to the duties of the board, the selectmen or the mayor and aldermen shall, after giving like public notice, proceed by ballot to elect a new board, and the votes of a majority of the entire board of selectmen, or of the mayor and aldermen, shall be necessary to an election.

SECT. 19. The term of service of every member elected in pursuance of the provisions of the two preceding sections, shall end with the municipal or official year in which he is chosen, and if the vacancy which he was elected to fill was for a longer period, it shall, at the first annual election after the occurrence of the vacancy, be filled in the manner prescribed for original elections of the school committee.

SECT. 20. All the members of the school committee shall continue in office for the purpose of superintending the winter terms of the several schools, and of making and transmitting the certificate, returns, and report of the committee, notwithstanding the election of any successor at the annual meeting; but for all other duties, the term of office shall commence immediately after election.

SECT. 21. Any town may, at the annual meeting, vote to increase or diminish the number of its school committee. Such increase shall be made by adding one or more to each class, to hold office according to the tenure of the class to which they are severally chosen. Such diminution shall be made by choosing, annually, such number as will in three years effect it, and a vote to diminish shall remain in force until the diminution under it is accomplished.

SECT. 22. The school committee shall appoint a secretary and keep a permanent record book, in which all its votes, orders and proceedings shall by him be recorded.

SECT. 23. The school committee, unless the town at its annual meeting determines that the duty may be performed by the prudential committee, shall select and contract with the teachers of the public schools; shall require full and satisfactory evidence of the good moral character of all instructors who may be employed; and shall ascertain, by personal examination, their qualifications for teaching and capacity for the government of schools.

SECT. 24. Every instructor of a town or district school shall, before he opens such school, obtain from the school committee a certificate in duplicate of his qualifications, one of which shall be deposited with the selectmen before any payment is made to such instructor on account of his services; and upon so filing such certificate, the teacher of any public school shall be entitled to receive, on demand, his wages due at the expiration of any quarter, or term longer or shorter than a quarter, or upon the close of any single term of service, subject to the condition specified in section thirteen of chapter forty.

SECT. 25. The school committee may dismiss from employment any teacher whenever they think proper, and such teacher shall receive no compensation for services rendered after such dismissal.

SECT. 26. The school committee, or some one or more of them, for the purpose of making a careful examination of the schools, and of ascertaining that the scholars are properly supplied with books, shall visit all the public schools in the town on some day during the first or second week after the opening of such schools respectively, and also on some day during the two weeks preceding the closing of the same; and shall also for the same purposes visit, without giving previous notice thereof to the instructors, all the public schools in the town once a month, and they shall, at such examinations, inquire into the regulation and discipline of the schools, and the habits and proficiency of the scholars therein.

SECT. 27. (R.) [The school committee shall require the daily reading of some portion of the Bible in the common English version; but shall never direct any school books calculated to favor the tenets of any particular sect of christians to be purchased or used in any of the town schools.]

SECT. 28. The school committee shall direct what books shall be used in the public schools, and no change shall be made in said books except by the unanimous consent of the whole board, unless the committee consists of more than nine, and questions relating to school books are intrusted to a sub-committee. In that case, the consent of two-thirds of the whole number of said sub-committee, with the concurrent vote of three-fourths of the whole board, shall be requisite for such change. If any change is made, each pupil then belonging to the public schools, and requiring the substituted book, shall be furnished with the same, by the school committee, at the expense of said town.

SECT. 29. The school committee shall procure, at the expense of the city or town, a sufficient supply of text-books for the public schools, and give notice of the place where they may be obtained. Said books shall be furnished to the pupils at such prices as merely to reimburse the expense of the same. The school committee may also procure, at the expense of the city or town, such apparatus, books of reference, and other means of illustration as they deem necessary for the schools under their supervision, in accordance with appropriations therefor previously made.

SECT. 38. When land has been designated by a town, school district, or those acting under its authority, or determined upon by the selectmen as a suitable place for the erection of a school-house and necessary buildings, or for enlarging a school-house lot, if the owner refuses to sell the same, or demands therefor a price deemed by the selectmen unreasonable, they may, with the approbation of the town, proceed to select, at their discretion, and lay out, a school-house lot, or an enlargement thereof, and to appraise the damages to the owner of such land in the manner provided for laying out highways and appraising damages sustained thereby; and upon payment, or tender of payment, of the amount of such damages, to the owner, by the town, the land shall be taken, held, and used, for the purpose aforesaid. But no lot so taken or enlarged shall exceed, in the whole, eighty square rods, exclusive of the land occupied by the school buildings.

SECT. 39. When the owner feels aggrieved by the laying out or enlargement of such lot, or by the award of damages, he may, upon application therefor in writing to the county commissioners within one year thereafter, have the matter of his complaint tried by a jury, and the jury may change the location of such lot or enlargement, and assess damages therefor. The proceeding shall in all respects be conducted in the manner provided in cases of damages by laying out highways. If the damages are increased, or the location changed, by the jury, the damages and all charges shall be paid by the town; otherwise the charges arising on such application shall be paid by such applicant. The land so taken shall be held and used for no other purpose than that contemplated by this chapter, and shall revert to the owner, his heirs or assigns, upon the discontinuance there, for one year, of such school as is required by law to be kept by the town.

SECT. 40. The school committee of a town in which the school district system has been abolished, or does not exist, shall have the general charge and superintendence of the school-houses in said town, so far as relates to the use to which the same may be appropriated.

SECT. 41. Except as may be otherwise provided in their respective charters, or acts in amendment thereof, the provisions of this chapter, so far as applicable, shall apply to cities. And the mayor and aldermen in the several cities are authorized to execute the powers given in section thirty-eight of this chapter to the selectmen and town.

SECT. 8. If a town so determines, the prudential committee may be chosen by the legal voters of the several school districts to which they respectively belong, in such manner as the district directs.

SECT. 18. The legal voters of any district, at a meeting called for that purpose, may raise money for erecting or repairing school-houses in their district ; for purchasing or hiring any buildings to be used as SECT. 4. They shall view the premises, when they deem it expedient or when requested by any party interested; and, before any view, shall give notice in the manner provided in the preceding section to all persons interested, of the time and place for commencing the same.

SECT. 5. They shall hear the parties, either at the time of the view, or at any regular or special meeting, or any adjournment thereof, as they determine; and as soon as may be after the hearing they shall consider and adjudicate upon the common convenience and necessity of laying out, altering, or discontinuing, such highway, as prayed for by the petitioners.

SECT. 6. When they have adjudicated upon the common convenience and necessity of laying out, altering, or discontinuing, a highway, they shall, as soon as may be, proceed to lay out, alter, or discontinue, the same accordingly; first giving such notice thereof as is required before proceeding to view, except that instead of a copy of the whole petition it shall be sufficient to serve and publish an abstract thereof.

SECT. 7. They may make such changes between the termini of the highway described in the petition, with regard to the direction, alteration, or discontinuance, thereof, as in their opinion the public convenience requires.

SECT. 8. If at the time of view, upon a petition for laying out or altering a highway, no person interested shall object, the commissioners may within six months proceed to lay out or alter the same without further notice. If at the time of view upon a petition for discontinuing a highway the commissioners shall decide that the same ought to be discontinued, they may at the same time adjudge and determine that it be discontinued without a further or subsequent meeting therefor, and may estimate the damages caused to any person thereby; and when a return of said proceedings and adjudication is made at the next regular meeting of the commissioners and accepted, it shall be held to be a discontinuance of such highway.

SECT. 9. If, upon a petition for laying out or altering a highway, the commissioners, after having viewed the same and heard all persons interested, are of opinion that the existing highway between the termini mentioned in the petition can be so far amended as to supersede the necessity of laying out a new highway or altering the location of existing ways, they may, after due notice to the towns interested, direct specific repairs to be made in the existing ways in such manner as the public convenience requires; and they may apportion the expense of making the same upon the county and towns respectively as in laying out highways.

SECT. 10. At the time of ordering specific repairs upon an existing highway, they may direct it to be closed to the public travel for such time as they may deem reasonable.

SECT. 11. Towns in which specific repairs are ordered to be made shall be liable to make the same, and be entitled to a trial by jury in like manner as is provided in laying out highways.

SECT. 12. When application is made to the commissioners by a town, or by five inhabitants of a town, to locate anew a road within such town, whether the same were laid out by the authority of the town or otherwise, they may, either for the purpose of establishing the boundary lines of such road or of making alterations in the course or width thereof, locate it anew, after giving like notice and proceeding in the manner prescribed in laying out highways. The expense shall be assessed upon the petitioners, or upon the town or county, as the commissioners order.

SECT. 13. When a highway is laid out or altered, the commissioners shall in their return determine and specify the manner in which such new highway or alteration shall be made, and also the time within which it shall be completed; and shall transmit to the clerks of the several towns in which said highway lies a description of the location and bounds thereof within the limits of such towns respectively, which description shall be recorded within ten days by the clerk in a book of records kept in the town for that purpose. They shall also allow the owner of the land a reasonable time to take off his timber, wood, or trees, which shall be expressed in their return. If he shall not remove the same within the time allowed, he shall be deemed to have relinquished his right thereto for the benefit of the town.

SECT. 14. If damage shall be sustained by any persons in their property, by the laying out, altering, or discontinuing, a highway, the commissioners shall estimate the amount, and in their return state the share of each separately; but they shall not order such damages to be paid, nor shall a person claiming damage have a right to demand the same, until the land over which the highway or alteration is located has been entered upon and possession taken for the purpose of constructing it. But when a person so claiming damages has been put to trouble and expense by the proceedings, the commissioners shall allow him full indemnity therefor, instead of the damages awarded, although no entry is made upon his land.

SECT. 15. When specific repairs are ordered to be made in a highway which occasion damage to any person or property, the commissioners shall estimate the same and make return thereof; and at their first meeting after the repairs are completed, they shall order the damage to be paid. But if the order for repairs does not go into effect, or is rescinded or altered, they shall order only so much of the damage to be paid as in their opinion has been actually sustained.

SECT. 16. In estimating the damage sustained by laying out, locating anew, altering, or discontinuing, a highway, or by an order for specific repairs, regard shall be had to all the damages done to the party, whether by taking his property or injuring it in any manner; and there shall be allowed, by way of set-off, the benefit, if any, to the property of the party by reason thereof.

SECT. 17. When persons having a claim for damages sustained in their property by the laying out, alteration, or discontinuance, of a highway, have different or separate interests in the property, so that an estate for life or for a term of years in the same belongs to one person, and the remainder or reversion in fee belongs to another, entire damages, or an entire sum as indemnity, shall be assessed in the same manner as is provided in other cases, without any apportionment thereof; and the amount of such damages or indemnity shall be paid over to or be recoverable by any person whom the parties owning the several interests may appoint, to be invested by him, when paid over or recovered, in bond, mortgage, or other good securities, and held in trust for the benefit of the parties according to their several interests; the annual income to be paid over to the person in whom was the estate for life or term of years, for the period such estate might have continued, and the remainder after the termination of such estate to be paid over absolutely to the person that was entitled to the reversion in fee, or to his heirs or devisees.

SECT. 18. If any of the persons having an interest in such property shall, by reason of legal disability, be incapacitated from choosing a trustee, or if the parties in interest cannot agree upon a choice, the probate court of the county in which the property is situated, upon application, shall appoint some suitable person as trustee. Said trustee shall before entering upon the duties of his trust give a bond to the judge of probate and insolvency, with sufficient surety or sureties, in such penal sum as the judge directs, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as trustee under the provisions of this and the preceding section;

[A party aggrieved by the doings of the commissioners, either in laying out, locating anew, altering, or discontinuing, a highway, or in the estimation of his damages occasioned thereby, or by reason of any specific repairs ordered by the commissioners, or in the sum awarded him as indemnity, may, on application in writing to the commissioners, have a jury to determine the matter of his complaint; unless he agrees with the parties adversely interested to have the same determined by a committee to be appointed under the direction of the commissioners.] 102 Mass. 123. 105 Mass. 140. (R.) Repeal and substitute. 1870, 75, 185.

SECT. 20. (R.) [Such jury or committee shall not revise the judgment of the commissioners as to the common convenience and necessity of laying out or altering the way in question; but they may make any alterations that are prayed for between the termini as established, so far as they think them necessary or proper.] (R.) Repeal and substitute. 1870, 75, 185.

SECT. 21. (R.) [Applications for a jury to revise the judgment of the commissioners in laying out, locating anew, altering, or discontinuing, a highway, or in ordering specific repairs to be made, may be received and acted upon at the meeting at which the order therefor is adopted, or at the next regular meeting thereafter, but not afterwards.]

SECT. 22. Applications for a jury to revise the judgment of the commissioners in the assessment of damages merely, or in the award of indemnity, may be made at any time within one year from the time of the adoption of the order; or, if within that time a suit shall be instituted wherein the legal effect of the proceedings of the commissioners in laying out, locating anew, altering, or discontinuing, a highway, is drawn in question, such application may be made at any time within one year after the final determination of the suit.

SECT. 23. If two or more persons apply at the same time for joint or several damages or indemnity, they may join in the same petition to the commissioners; and if several applications are pending at the same time before the commissioners for a jury to determine any matter relating to the laying out, alteration, or discontinuance, of a highway, or the assessment of damages or indemnity, they shall cause all such applications to be considered and determined by the same jury; and the costs shall be taxed either jointly or severally, as the court to which the verdict may be returned shall determine to be equitable.

SECT. 24. No jury shall be ordered, nor committee appointed, until the petitioners give recognizance to the county for the payment of all the costs and expenses which may arise in case the jury or committee shall not alter such highway, nor increase the damages or indemnity allowed by the commissioners.

SECT. 25. No petition for a jury shall abate or be defeated by the death of the petitioner; but the executor or administrator, or the heirs or devisees if they shall be the persons interested, may appear and prosecute such petition, or present a new petition, in the same manner and with the same effect as the original party might have done.

SECT. 26. If, upon the death of one or more of several petitioners for a jury, the executors or administrators, heirs or devisees, of such petitioners, after due notice that such petition is pending, neglect to appear or to prosecute, the surviving petitioners may proceed in the same manner as if they only had made the application.

108 Mass. 535

SECT. 54. Upon such application of a party thus interested, the commissioners shall order the petitioner to give notice thereof to all the other parties interested, by serving each of them, fourteen days at least before their next regular meeting, with an attested copy of such petition and the order thereon, that the other parties may if they see cause appear at the next meeting and become parties to the proceedings under the petition; and at the next meeting a jury shall be ordered as before provided in this chapter, who shall, under the direction of the person presiding at the trial, proceed to hear all the persons who have become parties to the proceedings.

SECT. 55. If on such hearing the jury find any of the parties entitled to damages, they shall assess the same in the following manner, to wit: they shall first find and set forth in their verdict the total amount of the damages sustained by the owners of such land and buildings, estimating the same as an entire estate and as if the same were the sole property of one owner in fee simple; and they shall then apportion the total amount of damages among the several parties whom they find to be entitled, in proportion to their several interests and claims and to the damages sustained by them respectively, and set forth such apportionment in their verdict; and if they find any one or more of said parties not to have sustained damage, they shall set forth in their verdict that they award no damages to such party.

SECT. 56. The verdict, if accepted, shall be conclusive upon all parties interested who shall either have had notice as aforesaid, or by consent have become parties to the proceedings.

SECT. 57. Each party recovering damages shall recover his several costs; and each party not recovering damages shall be liable for costs to the town or other corporation of which he shall have claimed damages, in like manner as if the proceedings were had under his several petition; but if a party shall fourteen days before the trial give notice in writing to the town or other corporation that may be liable for damages, that he relinquishes all claim for damages, and shall also before the trial file in the case a relinquishment of such claim, he shall not be liable for costs in the case.

SECT. 58. If a person, having notice as aforesaid, neglects to appear and become a party to the proceedings in court, he shall be forever barred from making an application for damages.

or by specific repairs which may be ordered thereon, he shall receive such compensation as the selectmen shall determine, to be assessed and awarded in the manner provided for the assessment and award of damages by county commissioners in laying out highways; which damages shall be paid by the town if it is a town way, but if a private way, then by the person for whose use it is so laid out or altered, or for whose benefit specific repairs are ordered, or on whose application it is discontinued, unless the selectmen deem it reasonable that part of the damage shall be paid by the town and the residue by said persons, in which case they shall make an order specifying the sums to be paid by each.

SECT. 63. The damages so awarded shall not be paid until the land is entered upon and possession taken for the purpose of constructing such way or alteration, or until the specific repairs which have been ordered are commenced. And if possession is not taken, or if the specific repairs are not made, the party, instead of the damages awarded to him, shall be entitled to indemnity to be assessed by the selectmen in the same manner that indemnity is awarded by county commissioners in like cases.

SECT. 64. If there are separate or different interests in lands or buildings which are so taken or injured, of the character and description mentioned in sections seventeen and eighteen, the damages shall be assessed by the selectmen in the mode therein provided for an assessment by the commissioners.

SECT. 65. Except as is hereinafter provided, no town way or private way laid out or altered by the selectmen, shall be established until such laying out or alteration, with the boundaries and admeasurements of the way, is reported to the town, and accepted and allowed at some public meeting of the inhabitants regularly warned and notified therefor, nor unless such laying out or alteration, with the boundaries and admeasurements, is filed in the office of the town clerk seven days at least before such meeting.

SECT. 66. When the location or alteration of a private way is desired in a town for the use of one or more persons, not being inhabitants thereof, or when the location or alteration of a private way lying partly in one town and partly in another is desired, the county commissioners may cause such way to be located or altered, proceeding therein as is provided where the selectmen refuse to lay out a private way.

SECT. 67. If the selectmen of a town unreasonably refuse or neglect to lay out or alter a town way or private way, when requested in writing by one or more of the inhabitants thereof, the commissioners, on the petition in writing of a person aggrieved presented at any regular meeting within one year, may cause such way to be laid out or altered, ascertain the place and course of the way, and estimate the damages sustained by any person by reason thereof. Such damages with all costs of the proceedings shall be paid by the town, if it is a town way. If it is a private way, the damages and costs, or such part thereof as the commissioners judge reasonable, shall be paid by the persons for whose use it is laid out or altered, and the residue, if any, by the town.

SECT. 68. If a town unreasonably refuses or delays to approve and allow a town way or private way laid out or altered by the selectmen, and to put the same on record, any person aggrieved thereby may within one year thereafter apply by petition in writing to the commissioners; and the commissioners, unless sufficient cause is shown against such application, may approve and allow of the way as laid out or altered by the selectmen, and direct the laying out or alteration and acceptance to be recorded by the clerk of such town, which shall have the like effect as if accepted by the town and recorded.

SECT. 69. If a town in which a town way or private way is laid out, altered, or approved, in pursuance of the three preceding sections, shall not make and complete the same in the manner prescribed by the commissioners, and to their acceptance, within six months from the time when the same is laid out or approved, or within the time directed by the commissioners, they shall, as soon as may be thereafter, cause such way to be completed, and at the next meeting shall direct the expenses and charges of completing the same to be paid out of the county treasury, and order notice thereof to be given to the delinquent town, stating the amount of such expenses and charges. If the town does not before the next regular meeting of the commissioners pay the same, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent. from the time when the same was paid by the county treasurer, they [shall] cause the same with all further costs to be collected in the manner prescribed in section fifty.

SECT. 70. Upon the application in writing of any person aggrieved by the refusal of a town to discontinue a town way or private way, the commissioners may order such way to be discontinued.

If towns refuse to discontinue.
R. S. 24, § 73.

SECT. 71. When a town way has been laid out or altered by the commissioners, it shall not within two years thereafter be discontinued or altered by the town; and when such way has been discontinued by the commissioners, the town shall not within two years thereafter lay out the same again.

When towns cannot lay out, &c.
R. S. 24, § 74.
2 Pick. 44.

SECT. 72. When an application is made to the commissioners in consequence of the refusal or neglect of selectmen to lay out or alter a private or town way, or in consequence of the refusal or neglect of the town to accept and allow such way when laid out or altered by the selectmen, or when such application is made for the discontinuance of a private or town way, the commissioners shall cause a like recognizance to be given to the county as is directed in this chapter with regard to applications for highways; and like proceedings may be had on such recognizance. They shall also cause notice to be given, before they proceed to view, or to hear the parties, as in the case of highways.

Upon such application, an order for a jury shall be made by the commissioners, (or by agreement of the parties the matter may be determined by a committee to be appointed by the commissioners;) and the jury or committee shall have the same powers, and the proceedings in all respects shall be conducted in the same manner, as before provided in like case with respect to highways. 98 Mass. 498.

SECT. 81. The provisions of the foregoing sections of this chapter, so far as applicable, shall apply to the several cities and towns, except as may be otherwise provided by city charters and acts in amendment thereof.

DEDICATION OF WAYS.

SECT. 82. No way opened and dedicated to the public use, which has not become a public way, shall be chargeable upon a city or town as a highway or town way, unless the same is laid out and established by such city or town in the manner prescribed by the statutes of the commonwealth.

12 Gray, 419. 1 Allen, 158. 8 Allen, 398.

SECT. 83. The mayor and aldermen and selectmen shall, whenever the public safety demands it, direct and cause the entrances of such ways entering on and uniting with an existing public highway, to be closed up; or may by other sufficient means caution the public against entering upon such ways; and if any such way shall not be closed, or sufficient notice given that the same is dangerous, the city or town shall be liable for damages arising from defects therein in the same manner as if it had been duly laid out and established.

SECT. 84. (S.) [In cities in which the city council, and in towns in which the inhabitants at a legal meeting, have accepted the provisions of this and the two following sections, if a street or way has been or shall be opened over private land by the owner thereof, and permitted to be used by the public before the same has been accepted and laid out according to law, the owners of the lots abutting thereon shall grade such street or way at their own expense, in such manner as the safety and convenience of the public shall in the opinion of the mayor and aldermen or selectmen require. If the owners of such abutting lots, after reasonable notice from the mayor and aldermen or selectmen, neglect or refuse so to do, or to close the street from public use, the mayor and aldermen or selectmen may cause the same to be graded, and after due notice to the parties interested shall assess the expense thereof upon the owners in such proportion as shall be judged reasonable. All assessments so made shall be a lien upon the abutting lands in the same manner as taxes are a lien upon real estate.]

SECT. 85. (S.) [The mayor and aldermen or selectmen may fix and establish the grade of a street or way so opened and used, and cause a plan of such grade to be deposited in the office of the city or town clerk. And all persons making improvements upon the lots abutting thereon, after the grade has been established and recorded, shall conform to the grade. But nothing contained in this and the preceding section shall affect any agreements heretofore made respecting such streets or ways, between the owners of lots and the city or town.]

SECT. 86. (S.) [The grading of such street or way by the owners of the land, in pursuance of the notice by the mayor and aldermen or selectmen, shall not be construed to be a dedication of the same to the public use, nor shall the establishment and record of the grade, or the grading thereof by the mayor and aldermen or selectmen, constitute an acceptance of the same by the city or town. But no such street or way shall be dug up or obstructed without the consent of the mayor and aldermen or selectmen.]

[ASCERTAINING LOCATION.]

SECT. 87. When ten or more freeholders represent to the mayor and aldermen of a city or selectmen of a town, that the exact location of a street, road or way, over which they have jurisdiction, cannot readily be ascertained, they shall make investigation thereof, and if it appears that the representation is correct, shall, after giving the notice required in laying out a similar road or way, proceed to ascertain the correct location, erect the necessary bounds, and file a certificate thereof for record, as provided in sections seventy-four and eighty-eight.

Such orders shall be final, and shall be enforced in the same manner as other orders by the commissioners are by law enforced.

[Towns shall vote such sums to be paid in labor and materials on the highways and town ways, as are necessary; and the assessors shall assess the same on the polls and estates, real and personal, of the inhabitants, residents and non-residents, of their town, as other town charges are by law assessed; and shall deliver to each surveyor a list of the persons within his limits, and the sums at which they are severally assessed.]

SECT. 4. Towns may vote to raise such sums of money as are necessary for making and repairing highways and town ways; and order that the same be assessed upon the polls and estates of the inhabitants, residents and non-residents, as other town charges are assessed; and the same shall be collected as other town taxes are collected.

or endangers, persons travelling thereon; and when such way is covered with snow they shall forthwith cause the same to be removed so trodden down as to make the way safe and convenient.

SECT. 9. No surveyor or other person shall remove or take fences, gates, or bars, placed on a highway or town way for the purpose of preventing the spreading of a disease which may be dangerous to the public health.

SECT. 10. No surveyor of highways shall, without the approval of the selectmen first had in writing, cause a water-course opened by the wash of a highway or town way to be so conveyed by the use of such way as to incommode any house, store, shop, or other building, or to obstruct any person in the prosecution of his business. Any person aggrieved by a violation of this section may complain to the selectmen or mayor and aldermen, who shall thereupon view the water-course, and may direct the surveyor to alter the same in such manner as they shall determine.

SECT. 11. Towns may authorize their surveyors or any other person to enter into contracts for making or repairing the highways or ways within the same.

SECT. 12. They may empower their surveyors to collect a taxes as are not paid in labor or otherwise within the time limited by law, or at such periods as may be agreed upon by the town; that purpose the assessors shall deliver to them warrants of distress and sale like the warrants prescribed by law for collecting other taxes; or they may deliver a warrant for collecting the deficiency of any highway tax to the collector, who shall then proceed to collect the same in like manner as other taxes are by law to be collected, and pay over the same to the respective surveyors, who shall account for the same to the selectmen for the expenditure thereof.

SECT. 13. When there is a deficiency either of labor or money amount appropriated for the repair of highways or town ways the limits of any surveyor, or when said amount is not furnished to him, so that he is unable to make such repairs, he may employ persons to make such repairs, but the amount not to exceed ten dollars, and the persons so employed shall be paid therefor by the town.

SECT. 14. If a town neglects to vote a sufficient sum of money for the purpose of repairing the highways and town ways, or does not otherwise effectually provide therefor, each of its surveyors, if he has obtained the consent of the selectmen for that purpose in writing, may employ persons to repair the highways and town ways in their respective districts, so that the same shall be safe and convenient for travellers at all seasons of the year, and the persons so employed shall be paid therefor by the town.

SECT. 15. Two-thirds at least of the sums of money granted each town for repairing highways and town ways, shall be laid out and expended for that purpose before the first day of July next: and the same are granted, or at such other time or times as the town at a meeting called for that purpose shall determine. If any part of the money raised is to be expended in labor and materials in the next March or April of the succeeding year, and after the surveyors of highways for such year are chosen and qualified, it shall be expended under the direction of the surveyors to whom the tax was committed, under the direction of the surveyors of the succeeding year having charge of the repairs of highways and town ways in the district in which the same is to be expended.

SECT. 16. Every surveyor shall exhibit his tax bill to the selectmen on the first Monday of July annually, and also at the expiration of the term for which he is appointed; and at those times shall render a true and correct account of all moneys expended by him on the highways and town property. For each neglect he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding fifty dollars.

SECT. 17. At the expiration of his term the surveyor shall render to the assessors a list of such persons as have neglected or refused to work out or otherwise pay their highway tax, when required by him as provided in section seven; and such deficient sums shall be collected and paid into the treasury like other town taxes.

SECT. 18. If any money remains unexpended in the hands of a surveyor at the expiration of his office, he shall pay the same to the town treasurer; who, after demand, may recover the same in an action of contract for money had and received, with twenty per cent. in addition thereto, to the use of the town.

SECT. 19. When an owner of land adjoining a highway or town way sustains damage in his property by reason of any raising, lowering, or other act, done for the purpose of repairing such way, he shall have compensation therefor, to be determined by the selectmen or mayor and aldermen; with whom he shall file his petition therefor after the commencement, and within one year from the completion of the work; and who shall finally adjudicate upon the question of damages within thirty days after the filing of the petition therefor, unless the parties agree in writing to extend the time. The benefit, if any, which the complainant may receive by reason of such alteration or repair, shall be allowed by way of set off.

SECT. 20. If the petitioner is aggrieved, either by the estimate of his damages or by a refusal or neglect to estimate the same, he may, within one year from the expiration of said thirty days, apply for a jury, and have his damages ascertained in the manner provided where land is taken in laying out highways. Or he may, by agreement with the adverse party and upon application made within the same time, have them ascertained by a committee to be appointed, in the city of Boston by the superior court, and elsewhere by the county commissioners in their respective jurisdictions.

SECT. 21. If the life of a person is lost by reason of a defect or want of repair of a highway, town way, causeway, or bridge, or for want of suitable rails on such way or bridge, the county, town, or person, by law obliged to repair the same, shall be liable to a fine of one thousand dollars, to be recovered by indictment to the use of the executor or administrator of the deceased person, for the benefit of his heirs, devisees, or creditors: provided, that the county, town, or person, had previous reasonable notice of the defect or want of repair of such way or bridge.

SECT. 22. If a person receives or suffers bodily injury, or damage in his property, through a defect or want of repair, or of sufficient railing in or upon a highway, town way, causeway, or bridge, he may recover, in an action of tort, of the county, town, place, or persons, by law obliged to repair the same, the amount of damage sustained thereby, if such county, town, place, or persons, had reasonable notice of the defect, want of repair, or of sufficient railing, or if the same had existed for the space of twenty-four hours previous to the occurrence of the injury or damage. But no such damage shall be recovered by a person whose carriage and load thereon exceed the weight of six tons.

SECT. 25. Except in cases where it is otherwise specially provided, fines imposed on a town for deficiencies in the ways and bridges within the same, shall be appropriated to the repairing of such ways and bridges; and the court imposing such fine shall appoint one or more persons to superintend the collection and application of the same, who shall make a return of their doings therein to the court.

SECT. 26. If on the trial of an indictment or action brought to recover damages for an injury received by reason of a deficiency or want of repair in a highway, town way, causeway, or bridge, it appears that the county, town, or person, against whom such suit is brought, has, at any time within six years before such injury, made repairs on such way or bridge, such county, town, or person shall not deny the location thereof.

PRIVATE WAYS AND BRIDGES.

SECT. 27. When four or more persons are the proprietors and right-ful occupants of a private way or bridge, and three of them make appli-cation in writing to a justice of the peace to call a proprietors' meeting, the justice may issue his warrant therefor, setting forth the time, place, and purpose, of the meeting; which shall be posted up in some public place of the town where such way or bridge is situate, seven days at least before the time appointed for the meeting.

SECT. 28. The proprietors and occupants so assembled shall choose a clerk and surveyor, who shall be sworn. They may determine by a majority of those present the manner of calling future meetings; what repairs of the way or bridge are necessary; and the proportion of money and of labor and materials to be furnished by each proprietor and occu-pant for such repairs. The surveyor shall have the like powers with respect to such ways or bridges as are exercised by surveyors of high-ways.

SECT. 29. A proprietor or occupant refusing or neglecting to comply with such vote when required by the surveyor, shall be held to pay him the amount of his proportion in money, with ten per cent. interest thereon, in an action of contract.

SECT. 30. If a person so chosen refuses or neglects to accept that trust and take the oath, he shall forfeit the sum of five dollars, to be recovered in the manner provided for the like neglect or refusal of a person chosen surveyor of highways.

SECT. 31. Damages and forfeitures recovered under the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be applied to the use of the propri-eters for repairing said ways or bridges.

SECT. 32. The proprietors and occupants may, at a legal meeting for that purpose, authorize any person to contract by the year, or for a longer or shorter time, for making and keeping in repair such private ways or bridges; may vote to raise such sum of money as they may deem necessary for carrying such contracts into effect; and may choose assessors who shall assess each proprietor and occupant for his propor-tion of such sum, according to his interest in such way or bridge, and deliver the lists of such assessments to the surveyor, with proper war-rants of distress, in substance as is prescribed by law for collecting town taxes.

SECT. 33. The surveyor may levy and collect such taxes in the same manner as surveyors of highways are empowered to collect highway taxes.

SECT. 34. If a surveyor neglects or refuses to pay over according to the direction of his warrant the moneys so collected, he shall be liable to the same penalties as are provided for a like neglect or refusal of sur-veyors of highways to pay over moneys to the town treasurer.

SECT. 35. The provisions of this chapter shall apply to cities except as otherwise provided in their charters or acts in amendment thereof.

The selectmen of each town shall submit to the inhabitants at every annual meeting a report of all the places in which guide posts are erected and maintained within the town, and of all places at which in their opinion they ought to be erected and maintained. For each neglect or refusal to make such report they shall severally forfeit the sum of ten dollars.

SECT. 3. Upon the report of the selectmen, the town shall determine the several places at which guide posts shall be erected and maintained, which shall be recorded in the town records. A town which neglects or refuses to determine such places, and to cause a record thereof to be made, shall forfeit the sum of five dollars for every month during which it neglects or refuses so to do; and in such case, upon any trial for not erecting or maintaining guide posts reported to be necessary or convenient by the selectmen, the town shall be estopped from alleging that such guide posts were not necessary or convenient.

But this section shall not diminish or interfere with the authority of surveyors of highways, or any other authority that can be legally exercised over highways or roads; nor shall any manner diminish the liability of any person for unreasonable obstructing highways or roads, nor shall it apply to cities.

SECT. 7. In cities in which the city council, and in towns in which the inhabitants, have adopted the provisions of this and the following section, the mayor and aldermen or selectmen may establish and grade sidewalks in such streets as in their judgment the public convenience may require, and may assess the abutters on such sidewalks or on the expense of the same, the residue being paid by such city or town. All assessments so made shall be a lien upon the abutting lands in the same manner as taxes are a lien upon real estate.

SECT. 8. No sidewalk constructed or graded in a city or town shall be dug up or obstructed in any part thereof, without the consent of the mayor and aldermen of the city, or of the selectmen of the town in which such sidewalk is established.

SECT. 9. City councils may by ordinance provide for the removal of snow and ice from sidewalks in such portions of their cities as they may deem expedient, which ordinance shall determine the time and manner of removal, and shall affix penalties not exceeding fifty dollars for a violation of its provisions by any owner or tenant of the estate abutting upon the sidewalk from which the snow and ice are required to be removed.

BY-LAWS.

SECT. 10. A city or town may make suitable by-laws and regulations to prevent the pasturing of cattle or other animals, either with or without a keeper, upon any or all of the streets or ways in such city or town, and may annex penalties not exceeding twenty dollars for a violation thereof. But no such by-law or regulation shall affect the right of a person to the use of land within the limits of such way or upon his own premises.

SECT. 11. The commissioners of each county may establish regulations to prevent persons from riding or driving horses at a rate faster than a walk over any bridge maintained by such county, which shall have not less than one thousand dollars; and annex penalties not exceeding one dollar for a breach thereof, to be recovered in an action in the court of the county treasurer.

SECT. 12. A town may at an annual meeting establish by-laws to prevent persons from riding or driving horses at a rate faster than a walk over any bridge within the limits of such town, which shall have not less than five hundred dollars; and annex penalties not exceeding one dollar for a breach thereof; but such by-laws shall first be approved by the commissioners for the county in which such town lies.

SECT. 13. The proprietors of an incorporated bridge may make such by-laws as they deem necessary to prevent persons from riding or driving horses over such bridge at a rate faster than a walk; and annex penalties to such by-laws not exceeding two dollars for each offence, to be recovered to the use of the corporation.

SECT. 14. No person shall be liable to any of the penalties provided in the three preceding sections, unless the commissioners, town, and proprietors, respectively, keep posted up at each end of such bridges, in a conspicuous place, a board painted with a white ground containing in black letters the substance of their said by-laws.

When such boundaries can be made certain, no length of time, less than forty years, shall justify the continuance of a fence or building on a town or private way, or on a highway, training field, burying place, landing place, or other land appropriated for the general use or convenience of the inhabitants of the commonwealth, or of a county, town, or parish; but the same may upon the presentment of a grand jury be removed as a nuisance.

SECT. 5. SECT. 6. The mayor and aldermen, selectmen, or any municipal officer of a city or town to whom the care of the streets or roads may be intrusted, may authorize the planting of shade trees therein, wher-

SECT. 9. In a city in which the city council, and in a town in which the inhabitants, have accepted this section, the mayor and aldermen or selectmen may set out and maintain shade trees upon the public squares and highways, at the expense of such city or town, which may appropriate annually, for that purpose, a sum not exceeding twenty-five cents for each of its ratable polls in the year next preceding that in which such appropriation is made.

all times to receive, consider, and register in a book kept for the purpose, complaints by and against pilots, and shall examine the evidence concerning the same. If a pilot is guilty of an act whereby the commission of his bond is broken, the commissioners shall make complaint to the commissioners an account of all vessels piloted and of all moneys received by him, or by any person for him, for pilotage, and pay to the commissioners six per cent. on the amount thereof, which shall be in addition for their official services, and for the expenses of the office; and the pilot may add six per cent. to the rates established by law at the time when they perform the service of piloting any vessel, and collect the same in the like manner as they are authorized to collect the pilotage fees. If a pilot makes a false return of moneys so received, he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding fifty dollars.]

SECT. 13. The commissioners may from time to time make rules and regulations concerning pilots and pilotage, establishing the port harbor lines of the several ports and harbors, and the limits within which vessels shall be exempt from compulsory pilotage, and fixing the of pilotage, which shall be in proportion to a vessel's draught of water. Such rules and regulations, after being approved by the governor and council, and published one week in one of the newspapers printed in the city or county to which they apply, shall be in full force. All existing rules and regulations not inconsistent herewith, shall continue in force until altered, amended, or repealed, as above provided. The commissioners shall, at least twice a year, at their own expense, publish all the regulations in force concerning the pilotage of the state; and shall cause the regulations and laws concerning pilots and pilotage to be observed and executed.

SECT. 14. They shall keep a record of all their official acts, and annually on or before the fifteenth day of October shall make a report to the secretary of the commonwealth of their proceedings for the year ending on the last day of the preceding month.

Vessels taking steam towage into or out of a port or harbor of this state, by direction of the owner or master, shall pay full pilotage; but when steam towage is taken by request of the pilot, the vessel shall be liable to pay only seventy-five per cent. of the rates of pilotage to which such vessels would otherwise be liable.

also liable to indictment for such insufficiency and want of repair; such corporation shall not be liable for damages to any person whose carriage and load exceed the weight of six tons.

SECT. 13. All fines imposed on a turnpike corporation for neglect to repair its road shall be appropriated to that purpose. The court imposing a fine shall appoint a suitable agent so to apply it, who shall receive the same of the officer having the warrant for collecting and make return of his doings therein to the court, according to order. The receipt of such agent upon the warrant shall be a sufficient discharge to the officer.

SECT. 14. When such corporation makes application to the court commissioners to permit it to relinquish its franchise as to the whole part of its road which it is bound to support within their jurisdiction, requesting that the same may be laid out as a common highway; when the commissioners on application determine that the convenience and necessity require such road to be laid out as a common highway; they may with the assent of the corporation so lay out the same or any part thereof, and make alterations therein; proceeding in all respects in conformity with the provisions of chapter forty-three respecting the laying out of highways.

SECT. 15. The commissioners upon such taking may allow such damages as they think reasonable to the corporation, to be paid out of the county treasury, and they may order a part of such damages, exceeding one-third thereof, to be refunded to the county treasury, the cities and towns through which the road passes, at such time as they direct. In apportioning the proportions to be paid by each, they shall have regard to the length of way in each, and the advantage to be derived to it.

If a city or town refuses or neglects to pay its proportion, the court proceedings may be had to enforce the payment as are provided in chapter of expenses of making highways by the commissioners where cities or towns neglect to make the same.

In the assessment of damages there shall be allowed to persons injured by such damages only as they would be entitled to beyond the damages they would have sustained by the continuance of the turnpike road, taking into consideration any advantage which may accrue in consequence of making the same a highway.

SECT. 16. When a turnpike road or part thereof is established as a highway, all the rights, privileges, duties, and obligations, of the corporation, so far as they relate to that part of the road, shall cease; when any such road is discontinued in whole or in part, the land which the part discontinued was laid shall revest in the persons, their heirs and assigns, who were owners thereof at the time it was taken, purchased for the purpose of making such road; any conveyance thereof by deed to the corporation notwithstanding.

SECT. 17. SECT. 18. When the road of any such last mentioned corporation is suffered to be out of repair, and complaint is made to the commissioners, and a sufficient recognizance given to the county with sureties for the satisfaction of the commissioners for the payment of all costs and expenses which may arise by reason of the proceedings thereon if the complainant does not prevail, they may, after giving at least four days' notice of said complaint to the president or clerk of the corporation, order that the gates be set open; and may order the costs and fees to be paid by the corporation, and issue a warrant for the collection of the same. When an attested copy of such order is left with the president or clerk, the gates shall be set open immediately, and no toll shall be demanded until the commissioners revoke said order.

19. The legislature may at any time dissolve any such last named corporation. May be dissolved.

This may be done by charter or by vote or agreement of the stockholders.

CHARTERS.

No petition for a charter for a railroad corporation shall be presented unless it is accompanied with a map of the proposed route on an appropriate scale; and with a profile of the route on a vertical scale comparing with the horizontal scale in the ratio of ten to one; nor unless it is accompanied and supported by the report of a skilful engineer, founded on actual examination of the route, or by other proper evidence showing the character of the ground in which it is proposed to construct the road, the general surface of the country through which it is proposed to be constructed, the feasibility of the route, and an estimate of the probable cost of construction.

Plans and profiles presented to a committee of the legislature, or a petition for such a charter shall be placed by the committee in the library.

No petition shall be acted upon until notice of the pending petition has been published according to law, which notice shall be published in the route with such certainty as to give reasonable notice to persons interested therein that their rights may be affected by the granting of the petition, and that they may have an opportunity to be heard thereon; but the provisions of this section and of the next section shall not prevent the legislature from requiring surveys, and from making estimates.

Every charter shall confine the road within the limits indicated in the preceding section, shall specify the towns through which the same may pass, and shall designate the route on which the road is authorized to be constructed with such certainty as the nature of the case will admit.

necessary for the crossing shall be constructed. Such ways shall be so made as not to obstruct or injure the railroad.

SECT. 59. The mayor and aldermen or selectmen, before laying out a way across a railroad, shall apply to the county commissioners for permission so to do. The commissioners shall cause due notice of the application to be given to the corporation owning the railroad; and after hearing the parties interested they may authorize the mayor and aldermen or selectmen so to lay out the way, and shall require it to be laid out and constructed in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section. They shall give special authority permitting it to be laid out upon a level with the railroad when in their opinion public necessity so requires.

SECT. 60. A corporation whose road is crossed by a turnpike or other way on a level therewith, shall at its own expense so guard or protect its rails by plank, timber, or otherwise, as to secure a safe and easy passage across its road; and if in the opinion of the county commissioners any subsequent alteration of the turnpike or other way, or any additional safeguards, are required at the crossing, they may order the corporation to establish the same as provided in section forty-eight.

SECT. 61. A corporation shall maintain and keep in repair all bridges with their approaches and abutments which it constructs over or under any turnpike road, canal, highway, or other way.

SECT. 62. The original jurisdiction of all questions touching obstructions to turnpikes, highways, or town ways, caused by the construction or operation of railroads, shall be vested in the county commissioners within their respective jurisdictions.

SECT. 63. The supreme judicial court shall have jurisdiction in equity, and may compel such corporations to raise or lower any turnpike, highway, or town way, when the county commissioners have decided in due and legal form that such raising or lowering is necessary for the security of the public; and to comply with the orders, decrees, and judgments, of county commissioners, in all cases touching obstructions to such ways by railroads.

CROSSINGS IN PRIVATE LANDS.

SECT. 64. When a railroad laid out by authority of law through land without the consent of the owner, separates one portion thereof from another, or from a highway or other public way, and the owner has a right to cross the railroad, if a difference arises between him and the corporation owning the road as to the place or manner in which he shall cross, either party may apply to the county commissioners to direct such place or manner. The commissioners after due notice to the other party and hearing the parties may make such order in relation thereto and the costs of the application as they may deem proper.

SECT. 65. If a crossing is deemed inconvenient by such owner or corporation, either party may apply to the commissioners to alter the same, and upon like notice and hearing they may make like order in relation thereto.

SECT. 66. Unless the corporation makes the application the commissioners shall not under the two preceding sections order it to construct or maintain any crossing without its consent, except where it is liable by law or by agreement to construct a crossing for the owner of the land; and no application under said sections shall be proceeded with until the applicant furnishes sufficient recognizance to the county with sureties to the satisfaction of the commissioners for the payment of costs and expenses according to their order.

DAMAGES AT CROSSINGS.

city or town may recover of the corporation whose highway or town way therein, all damages, charges, and expenses by such city or town by reason of the neglect or reparation to erect or keep in repair all structures required at such crossing.

When a corporation, its servants, or agents, wilfully or negligently obstruct a highway, town way, or public street, by its engines, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for each such offence.

When a party upon the trial of an action recovers damages from a town for an injury caused to his person or property by a highway within the location of a railroad, the city or town, upon owning the road is liable for such damages and has the right to notice to defend the action, may, in addition to the recovery of all costs of both plaintiff and defendant in the action.

PURCHASE OF TURNPIKES.

When a turnpike road interferes with the convenient location of a railroad, the turnpike corporation may, in pursuance of a vote of the shareholders, calling for the purpose, assign and transfer its franchise, whole or part of its road to the railroad corporation. The rights and duties of the turnpike corporation shall be discontinued so far as they relate to the part of the road so transferred, and the railroad corporation may locate its road upon any ground.

No part of a turnpike road shall be assigned or used as a highway in any preceding section, without the consent in writing of the shareholders if such part is located in a single county, or of the shareholders of each county in which it lies in two or more counties.

Damages caused by taking the property of any person in any preceding sections shall be estimated and paid as in case of a taking under section nineteen.

DRAWBRIDGES.

[See 1863, 131.]

Every corporation shall provide for each drawbridge of a railroad a steady and discreet superintendent, experienced in the management of vessels, who shall have full control and direction of the drawbridge through the draw.

The superintendent shall at all hours of the day and night be on the draw, shall, having regard to the convenient and safe passage of engines and trains and the state of the tide, decide in what order in which vessels may pass, allowing no unnecessary delay, and shall give all necessary advice and furnish proper facilities for the passage of vessels; and shall keep posted up in a convenient place, for the view of all persons interested, a written copy of his regulations and the provisions of sections seventy-three to eighty in-clusive.

Every commander of a vessel applying to pass such drawbridge shall give the superintendent a true report of his vessel's draught of water, and shall be governed by him as to priority of right when two or more vessels apply to pass at the same time; he shall, unless otherwise directed by the superintendent, in passing go to the right, according to the regulations of the drawbridge; and except as he may be authorized by the superintendent, shall so place his buoys, warping-lines, anchors, or cables,

SECT. 76. Railroad trains shall be allowed fifteen minutes to cross draw before and after their table time for being due, and a further reasonable time to pass shall be allowed to any approaching train.

SECT. 77. Nothing contained in the four preceding sections shall abridge the rights of any such corporation as they existed on the twenty-first day of May in the year eighteen hundred and fifty-five.

SECT. 78. Whoever obstructs the superintendent in the performance of his duties or violates any provision of the five preceding sections shall pay a fine of not less than three nor more than fifty dollars.

SECT. 79. Whoever breaks, defaces, or impairs, any such bridge, wharf, or pier appurtenant thereto, or unnecessarily opens or obstructs the draw without the consent of the superintendent, or without such consent makes fast or moors any scow, raft, or other vessel, to such bridge within wake of the draw, shall pay a fine of not less than three nor more than twenty dollars.

SECT. 80. Whoever wilfully injures or damages any railroad bridge, wharf, or pier, or wilfully disturbs or hinders the superintendent in the discharge of his duties, shall forfeit for each offence a sum not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars, and be further liable in damages to the corporation against which the offence is committed.

REGULATIONS FOR OPERATING ROAD.

SECT. 81. No corporation shall run or permit to be run upon its road any train of cars moved by steam power for the transportation of passengers, unless there is placed upon the train one trusty and skilful brakeman to every two cars in the train.

SECT. 82. If a corporation runs or permits to be run upon its road a train of cars for the transportation of merchandise without a good and sufficient brake attached to the rear or hindmost car of the train, and a trusty and skilful brakeman placed and permanently stationed on such car, it shall forfeit a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offence.

SECT. 83. (R.) [Every corporation shall cause a bell of at least thirty-five pounds in weight to be placed on each locomotive engine passing upon its road; and such bell shall be rung at the distance of at least eighty rods from the place where the road crosses a turnpike, highway, or town way, upon the same level therewith, and in like manner when the road crosses any other travelled place, over which a sign-board is required to be maintained, as provided in section eighty-five, and shall keep ringing until the engine has crossed such turnpike or way.]

SECT. 84. Every corporation shall cause boards, well supported posts or otherwise, to be placed and constantly maintained across each turnpike, highway, or town way, where it is crossed by the railroad upon the same level therewith; said posts and boards shall be of such height as to be easily seen by travellers without obstructing the travel; and on each side of the boards the following inscription shall be printed in capital letters of at least the size of nine inches each, — RAILROAD CROSSING — LOOK OUT FOR THE ENGINE (R.) [WHILE THE BELL RINGS]

SECT. 85. If the mayor and aldermen or selectmen of a city or town wherein a travelled place is so crossed by a railroad, decide that it is necessary for the better security of the public, that such sign-boards should be maintained at such travelled place, they may in writing request the corporation owning the railroad to erect and maintain the same. If the corporation neglects or refuses so to do, the mayor and aldermen or selectmen may apply to the county commissioners to decide upon the reasonableness of their requests. If the commissioners, after ring of the parties, decide that such erection is necessary security of the public, the corporation shall comply with and pay the costs of the application. If they decide that necessary, one-half of the costs of the application shall be by the city or town, and one-half by the corporation.

If the mayor and aldermen or selectmen of a city or town way, town way, or travelled place, so crossed by a railroad be of opinion that the provisions contained in the three sections are not a sufficient security to the public, and that it is not such security that gates should be erected across such pike, highway, town way, or travelled place, and that authorized to open and close such gates when an engine passes, instead of gates, for security across such travelled place, in writing request the corporation to erect gates and bars, or request the erection of bars. If the corporation neglect to comply with the request, the mayor and aldermen may apply to the county commissioners, who shall hear and hear the parties.

If the commissioners decide that the public security requires the erection of gates and providing an agent, or the erection of bars, the corporation shall comply with the decision and pay the costs of the application. If the commissioners decide that the erection of gates and an agent, or of bars, as requested, is not necessary, the mayor and aldermen or selectmen shall pay the costs of the application. If the application is for the establishment of gates and an agent, or of bars, not adjudged to be a town way or highway, the commissioners decide that bars will furnish sufficient security, the corporation shall be required to erect and make such order respecting costs.

In the city of Boston the above request may be made by the mayor or the inhabitants of the city, and upon the neglect or refusal of the corporation to comply with their request, they may apply to the mayor and aldermen; and thereupon like proceedings shall be had, and the corporation shall be liable to pay the costs, as are provided in the preceding section.

If the mayor and aldermen or selectmen of a city or town way, pike, highway, street, or town way, so crossed by a railroad, decide that the safety of the public would be more secured by the stationing of a flag-man than by the erection of gates, they may in writing request the corporation to station a flag-man at the crossing, who shall hold a flag whenever a locomotive engine or train of cars passes the crossing. If the corporation refuses or neglects so to do, the mayor and aldermen may apply to the county commissioners to decide upon the reasonableness of the request; and if the commissioners decide in favor of the request, and hearing the parties decide that the stationing of a flag-man is necessary for the security of the public, the corporation shall comply with the decision and pay the costs of the application. If the commissioners decide that the stationing of such flag-man is not necessary, the mayor and aldermen or selectmen shall pay the costs.

If a corporation unreasonably neglects or refuses to comply with the request or decision made under the seven preceding sections, the corporation shall be liable to pay for every such refusal or neglect a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars.

If an agent so stationed neglects to open or close the gates, or the passing of an engine on the railroad, or a traveller on the highway, or if a flag-man so stationed neglects to discharge the duties above required, the agent or flagman shall, for every such neglect, be liable to pay a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars; and the corporation shall also be liable for all damages sustained by any person by

SECT. 30. The proprietors may raise money from time to time for defraying their common charges and managing their affairs, which money shall be assessed by the assessors upon the several proprietors in proportion to their respective interests; and any proprietor who thinks himself overrated in such assessment may apply for relief to the county commissioners, who shall hear and determine the case, and whose judgment thereon shall be final.

SECT. 31. The collector shall collect said sums in the same manner as collectors of towns are authorized to collect town taxes.

SECT. 32. If a proprietor is injured in his lands by the beasts of a stranger, he shall have the same remedy therefor as if his land had been enclosed and used separately.

SECT. 33. The whole fence enclosing such general field shall, so far as it may be found convenient, be apportioned among the proprietors according to the number of acres held and cultivated or otherwise used by each one; and the part to be maintained by each proprietor shall be set out and assigned to him by any two or more fence-viewers, unless the proprietors agree on an apportionment of the fence among themselves. In all cases the proportion of fence so assigned to each proprietor shall be recorded by the clerk in the books of the proprietors; and where there is no clerk, the record shall be made by the clerk of the city or town in which the general field is situated.

SECT. 34. So long as a proprietor declines to cultivate his land, or to use it for pasturing, the growth of wood, or otherwise, he shall not be required to maintain any part of the fence, nor to pay any tax or assessment on account of his land.

SECT. 35. The expense of apportioning the fence and also of making and maintaining such part thereof as cannot be conveniently and justly assigned to any one proprietor, shall be borne by all the proprietors liable to be taxed, in proportion to their respective interests; and the part assigned to each proprietor shall be made and maintained by himself so long as he uses his part of the general field for pasturing, planting, mowing, or otherwise.

SECT. 36. If the part of the fence assigned to a proprietor becomes deficient and he does not repair it within three days after notice of such deficiency given him by a fence-viewer of the town, it may be repaired by any other proprietor; and such repairs may be examined by any two or more fence-viewers, and if adjudged by them to be sufficient, they shall ascertain and determine the cost of the repairs and make a statement thereof and of the amount of their fees in writing under their hands.

SECT. 37. The person making such repairs may demand of the proprietor bound to make them, or of the tenant holding under him, double the cost of the repairs and of the fees of the fence-viewers so ascertained; and if the same is not paid within one month after notice and demand, he may recover the same in an action of tort.

SECT. 38. If a part of the fence is suddenly blown down or carried away by a flood or tempest at a time when the crops of grain or grass in the field are thereby exposed to immediate destruction or injury, the proprietor to whom that part of the fence was assigned shall be bound

Any proprietor may enclose his land at his own expense; and he keeps it enclosed with a sufficient fence, may cultivate it as he thinks fit; and during such period, so far as such land is concerned, he shall neither be assessed for any extent to the common field, nor exercise any control over the land not enclosed.

Every proprietor of land lying unfenced in a general field, in every two years, if requested by the owner of the land, to run lines with such owner between their lots, and shall set up the boundaries between them by sufficient boundary stones at joint expense. If he fails so to do after seven days' notice from the adjoining owner, he shall forfeit two dollars, to be recovered by the adjoining owner to his own use in an action of tort.

When five or more distinct lots or pieces of land are so situated as to render it for the interest of the proprietors to enclose the common field, the superior court for the county in which the land is situated may order it to be so enclosed, if upon a petition from the parties it appears to the court to be for their common to such order shall be made unless upon the application of the proprietors in interest of the proprietors, and after due notice to all persons interested and a full hearing thereon.

After a common or general field is so established by an order, the further proceedings in relation thereto shall be the same as provided when a field is so enclosed by the consent of the proprietors; and the proprietors shall be entitled to the privileges and duties before provided in this chapter with respect to such fields enclosed by consent.

Three or more proprietors of lots in a general field lying in a common fence or enclosure may, by a petition in writing to the superior court, request to have their lots either alone or jointly divided from the remainder of the field enclosed in one common fence and occupied by them as separate lots from the other proprietors. If the majority of the proprietors present at such meeting withhold or refuse their consent to such division, the superior court may upon the like application appoint a committee of interested and suitable persons within the county where the field is situated, to be a committee to make the division, and to assign to each field its proportion of the common fence which becomes necessary by reason of such division, and to have the same up and maintained by the proprietors of the said general field.

The committee shall as soon as may be after their appointment, make their doings under their hands to the court; and the court shall by its order cause the fields so divided shall be deemed separate fields, and the proprietors of the field set off and the proprietors of the original field respectively shall be distinct and separate bodies, having like powers and privileges and duties and liabilities as the proprietors of the original field before the division; but no order for such division shall be made until such committee shall be appointed, until the other proprietors have notice of the petition for such division; which notice shall be served by the clerk of the proprietors with a copy of the petition at least before such order or appointment is made.

SECT. 2. Corporations created by charter, if no time is limited therein, shall be organized within two years from the passage of their respective acts of incorporation.

SECT. 3. The first meeting of such corporations, unless otherwise provided in their acts of incorporation, shall be called by a notice signed by the person or a majority of the persons named therein, setting forth the time, place, and purposes, of the meeting; and such notice shall seven days at least before the meeting be delivered to each member, or published in some newspaper of the county where the corporation is established, or if there is no such paper, then in some newspaper of an

When by reason of the death, absence, or other legal inability of the officers of a corporation, there is no person duly qualified to call or preside at a legal meeting, any justice of the peace where the corporation is established may on a written warrant issue a warrant to either of them to call a meeting by giving such notice as had been required by law; and the justice may in the same warrant authorize any person to preside at the meeting until a clerk shall be duly qualified, if no officer is present legally authorized to preside. The corporation when so assembled may elect officers to fill the vacancies and act upon such other business as may by law be transacted at a legal meeting.

Corporations may by their by-laws, where no other provision is made, determine the manner of calling and conducting meetings; the number of members that shall constitute a quorum; the shares that shall entitle the members to one or more votes; the mode of voting by proxy; the mode of selling shares for the satisfaction of assessments; and the tenure of office of the several officers. In the sale of such franchise, the person who satisfies execution or warrant of distress with all legal fees and expenses thereon or who agrees to take such franchise for the shortest period of time, to receive during that time all such toll as the corporation would be entitled to demand, shall be considered as the highest bidder.

SECT. 30. SECT. 35. When a majority in number or interest of the members of a corporation desire to close their concerns, they may apply by petition to the supreme judicial court, setting forth in substance the grounds of their application, and the court, after due notice to all parties interested, may proceed to hear the matter, and for reasonable cause decree the dissolution of the corporation. Corporations so dissolved shall be deemed and held extinct in all respects as if their charters had expired by their own limitation.

SECT. 37. When the charter of a corporation expires or is annulled, or the corporation is dissolved as provided in section thirty-five, the supreme judicial court on application of a creditor, stockholder, or member, at any time within said three years, may appoint one or more persons to be receivers or trustees to take charge of its estate and effects, and collect the debts and property due and belonging to it; with power

SECTION 1. Every city and town shall relieve and support all poor and indigent persons lawfully settled therein, whenever they stand in need thereof. 3 Allen, 515. 106 Mass. 262.

SECT. 2. The overseers of the poor shall have the care and oversight of all such poor and indigent persons so long as they remain at the charge of their respective cities or towns, and shall see that they are suitably relieved, supported, and employed, either in the workhouse or almshouse, or in such other manner as the city or town directs, or otherwise at the discretion of said overseers. They may remove to the almshouse such children as are suffering destitution from extreme neglect of dissolute or intemperate parents or guardians.

SECT. 3. The overseers of the poor shall have the same power and authority over persons placed under their care, which directors or masters of workhouses have over persons committed thereto.

SECT. 5. When the court adjudges two or more of the kindred of a pauper sufficient ability to contribute to his support, they shall be liable against any one respondent than is occasioned by his want of defence.

The court may further order with whom of such kindred, the pauper shall live and be relieved, and such order at such time with another, as they shall deem proper, to the comfort of the pauper as well as the convenience of the town.

A complaint made as provided in this chapter, shall be filed with the clerk's office, and a summons shall be thereupon issued requiring the defendant therein named to appear and answer thereto; which summons may be directed to any officer qualified to serve civil process, and served like an original summons, fourteen days before the sitting of the court to which it is returnable.

Upon suggestion that there are other kindred of ability, than those named in the original process, they may be summoned, and after they appear or are defaulted, the court may proceed in the same manner as if they had been summoned upon complaint.

The court may take further order from time to time in any application of any party interested, and may alter the order of payment and apportionment according to circumstances; and in any complaint they may award costs to either party as justice may require.

The overseers, in their respective places, shall provide for the support and relief of all persons residing or found therein, who are unable to support themselves, and who are not settled in other places, when they fall into distress, and are in need of immediate relief, and until they are removed to the place of settlement; the expenses whereof, incurred within the month next before notice given to the place to be charged, as to removal, or burial in case of their decease, may be recovered from the place liable therefor, in any action brought, to be instituted within two years after the cause of action, if not otherwise provided.

Recovery in such action shall bar the place against which the action is brought from disputing the settlement of such pauper with the town, in any future action brought for his support.

When a person is supported in a place other than that in which he is settled, the place liable for his support shall not be liable therefor more than at the rate of one dollar a week: the place so liable shall cause the pauper to be removed to the place of settlement from the time of receiving legal notice that such support is furnished.

The overseers of the poor of each place shall also relieve, and employ, all poor persons residing or found therein, having no settlement within this state, until their removal to a state of settlement in case of their decease shall decently bury them; the expense may be recovered of their kindred, if they have any, or of the town for their support, in the manner herein before provided. In case of their burial the expense thereof is not paid by the town, unless there shall be paid from the treasury of the commonwealth for the funeral expenses of each pauper over twelve years of age two dollars and fifty cents for the funeral expenses of the pauper under that age.

SECT. 18. If such removal is not effected by the last mentioned overseers within two months after receiving the notice, they shall within said two months send to one or more of the overseers requesting removal, a written answer, signed by one or more of them, stating their objections to the removal; and if they fail so to do, the overseers who requested the removal may cause the pauper to be removed to any place of his supposed settlement, by a written order directed to any person therein designated, who may execute the same; and the overseers of the place to which the pauper is so sent shall receive and provide for him; and such place shall be liable for the expenses of his support until removal, to be recovered in an action by the place incurring the same, and shall be barred from contesting the question of settlement with the plaintiffs in such action.

SECT. 11. The governor, with the advice and consent of the council, shall, when necessary, appoint and commission in each place some suitable person to be superintendent of alien passengers therefor, who, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall be sworn, and give bond, with sufficient sureties for the performance thereof, to the treasurer of the commonwealth, in such sum as shall be specified in his commission, and he shall hold his office until he is appointed, commissioned, and qualified in his stead. The superintendent for the city of Boston shall receive a salary of two thousand dollars a year for his services as such superintendent and as a member of the board of alien commissioners; and the superintendent at any other place, such salary as the governor and council may determine, not exceeding the amount of alien passenger money received by the state, and the salary of each shall be expressed in his commission.

SECT. 12. Each superintendent shall from time to time designate the places for the examination of vessels as hereinafter mentioned. He shall require the pilots of the ports of his city or town to anchor all vessels at the places so designated, there to remain until such examination is had. Any pilot who refuses or neglects to perform said duties, or who through negligence or design permits any alien passenger to land before such examination, shall forfeit not less than fifty nor more than two thousand dollars.

SECT. 13. The superintendents shall have the care and oversight of all matters arising under the four following sections in the several towns for which they are appointed; and when a breach of any provision thereof comes to their knowledge, they shall, with the advice of the district-attorney for their district, institute prosecutions for the same, and for the forfeitures incurred.

SECT. 14. When a vessel which does not belong to a line of regular communication established for the regular transportation of passengers, water and not extending beyond or stopping at places within the limits of the United States, arrives at any port or harbor within the state, with alien passengers on board who have never before been landed within the state, or who, if so, were a public charge as lunatics or paupers, the superintendent of the place where it is intended to land such passengers shall go on board such vessels and examine into the condition of such passengers; and the master or commanding officer of such vessel shall, within twenty-four hours after such arrival, make a report in writing under oath to said superintendent, of the name, age, occupation, place of birth, last place of residence, and condition of every such passenger; and none of them shall be landed or permitted to land, except as is hereinafter provided, until such report is made.

SECT. 15. No insane, idiotic, deaf and dumb, blind, deformed, or maimed person, among said passengers, or alien who has before been a public charge within this state, shall be permitted to land until the master, owner, consignee, or agent of such vessel makes and deposits with said superintendent a bond to the commonwealth for each of such persons, with satisfactory sureties in the sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned that such passengers shall not within ten years from the date thereof become a city, town, or state charge. (R.) [And no alien passenger shall be permitted to land until a bond is given as aforesaid, in the sum of three hundred dollars, conditioned that he shall not become a public charge as aforesaid within five years from the date thereof.] In lieu of the bond last mentioned, the superintendent may receive from the said master, owner, consignee, or agent, such sum, not less than three hundred dollars, as in his judgment is sufficient to cover the risk incurred by the commonwealth in permitting such passenger to be landed; and the passengers shall be certified by the superintendent on the port:] provided, that if any passenger arriving as aforesaid, or destitute as to require relief, and the master refuses to land, or if said master, owner, consignee, or agent refuses to land, the superintendent may permit such passenger to be landed at the commonwealth or any place is put to expense for sickness, or burial, within ten years of the time he is so landed at the commonwealth or such place may in an action of contract recover the amount of all such expenses of said master, owner, consignee, or agent, who shall also severally forfeit the sum of five hundred dollars for every passenger so landed.

R.) [When a master, owner, consignee, or agent, has been required to pay to the superintendent the sum of two dollars for the landing of an alien passenger, the superintendent shall refund said sum upon receiving evidence within thirty days that the passenger left the state within forty-eight hours after such payment; and he shall state the sum so refunded in his quarterly accounts.]

R.) [The superintendent of alien passengers, instead of requiring the payment of two dollars as aforesaid, may in any case take sufficient sureties, for such payment; and on proof that the passenger left the state within forty-eight hours after giving such bond, the superintendent shall cancel it.]

R.) [If an alien passenger on whose account the commonwealth has been refunded or bond cancelled as provided in the preceding sections, within five years thereafter returns into this state, or comes a public charge, the party who paid the commutation for the bond, shall become liable to the commonwealth for the support of such passenger's support, to the same extent as if a sum of three hundred dollars had been taken upon the bond of such alien.]

The preceding provisions shall not extend to seamen sent ashore by consuls or vice consuls of the United States, nor to consuls, or public ministers, or other persons representing the United States, nor to persons coming on shore from vessels in distress, nor to any alien passenger taken from a wreck where life is in distress, if the master or commanding officer of a vessel lands an alien passenger at any place within this state other than that to which he is destined, with intent to avoid the requirements of this chapter, he shall forfeit one hundred dollars for every passenger so landed.

If the master or commanding officer of a vessel lands, or attempts to land, in this state, any alien passenger, without complying with the provisions of this chapter, he and the owner or consignee shall severally forfeit five hundred dollars for every passenger so landed.

If the master or other person having charge of a vessel, lands, or attempts to land, in this state, any alien passenger, who is a convict, or who has been sentenced to transportation, or who is a person of dissolute, infamous, and abandoned life and character, or who is known to be such, he shall for every such offence forfeit a sum of five hundred dollars.

Every superintendent of alien passengers shall on the third day of January, April, July, and October, of each year, render to the governor of the commonwealth, a detailed account of all the money received and expended by him and his assistants under the provisions of this chapter, up to the first days of said months; and after deducting from the amount of salary due to him up to the time to

[The judge may hear and determine such applications and complaints against persons charged as being lunatics, at such times and places as he may appoint; and when requested by the person complaining against, he shall issue a warrant to the sheriff or his deputy, directing him to summon a jury of six lawful men, to hear and determine the question whether the person complained against is so insane as to render it manifestly dangerous to the peace and safety of the community that he should be at large.]

SECT. 12. The jurors shall be selected in equal numbers from the place in which the trial is had, and one or two adjoining places. The judge shall direct; and the same proceedings shall be had in regard to the jury and empanelling the jury as are prescribed in chapter forty-third of the Revised Statutes, that in the counties of Suffolk and Nantucket all the jurors shall be taken from the same place.

SECT. 13. The judge shall preside at such trial, and administer to the jury an oath faithfully and impartially to try the issue, and the verdict of the jury shall be final on the complaint.

If by reason of challenges or otherwise there is a deficiency in the jury of the persons summoned, the judge shall cause the deficiency to be served the summons, or in his absence the officer attending the trial shall return suitable persons to supply the deficiency; and shall exercise the same authority as the supreme judicial court to enforce the attendance of jurors and witnesses, and inflict fines for non-attendance.

SECT. 15. The officer who summons and attends the jury shall receive therefor four cents a mile for all necessary travel, and one cent and fifty cents for each day that he attends upon them; and the jurors and witnesses shall be entitled to such compensation as is prescribed in the laws for jurors and witnesses in the supreme judicial court.

SECT. 16. The expenses of the trial, including the fees of the jurors and necessary witnesses, shall be allowed and certified by the judge, and paid out of the county treasury.

SECT. 17. There shall be allowed to each judge of the probate court for receiving, hearing, and determining, every application made for the commitment of a lunatic, a fee of two dollars, to be paid out of the county treasury. The judges shall present their accounts for such fees as often as once in each year, to the county commissioners, who shall audit and allow them if found correct. There shall be allowed to the judge of the probate court for receiving, hearing, and determining an application for the discharge of a lunatic from either hospital, a fee of two dollars, to be paid by the party making the application.

SECT. 18. The superior court may allow to any sheriff, constable, or other person to whom a precept is directed by name, who may be employed by any person to either hospital, the same fees as are allowed for such person upon the commitment of persons to prison, and such further compensation as may be allowed for expenses incurred in said commitments as to the court may see fit to allow; and the sums so allowed shall be made up in the general bill of costs for the term of the court at which the allowance is made.

(k.) [When it appears on application in writing to any justice of the peace, one of whom shall be of the quorum, or to a person having no known settlement within this state, or to the justices or court shall commit such person to one of the hospitals.]

(o.) [The expenses of said hospitals for the support of lunatics committed by any of the judicial officers mentioned in this section, or by a proclamation of the governor, or by a resolve of the legislature, shall be paid by the place in which such lunatics had their settlement at the time of their commitment, unless other sufficient security be given to the satisfaction of the trustees for such support. If a person commits or refuses to pay whatever sum may be charged and levied by the by-laws of the hospital on account of the support of such person therein, or for the removal of any patient whom the trustees are authorized by law to remove, for thirty days after the same shall be demanded by the treasurer in writing of the mayor and aldermen of the city or town liable therefor, the same, with interest and costs of such demand, may be recovered for the use of the hospital in an action in the name of the treasurer against such person; but if it is made to appear that the lunatic for whose support is demanded has no settlement within this state, the city or town of his residence shall not be liable for the expense incurred.]

(p.) SECT. 27. (R.) [If at any time all said hospitals are so full that inmates cannot all be suitably accommodated therein, and in the opinion of the trustees of either hospital it is proper that some should be removed, the trustees may remove to the jails or houses of correction the respective counties from which such lunatics were sent, so much as may be necessary to afford suitable accommodation for the remainder. In making selections for such removal the trustees shall, when circumstances are equal, select foreigners before citizens, and among citizens those who in their opinion are least susceptible of improvement in the hospital; and the lunatics so removed shall be subject to the order and direction of the commissioners of said counties respectively.]

The trustees may also remove any idiot or other patient to the hospital where the judge or court committing him shall certify that he is not when in their opinion he ceases to be dangerous and is not susceptible of mental improvement by remedial treatment at the hospital. SECT. 9. Any insane person confined in a jail, house of correction, or county receptacle, by authority of a certificate of the trustees of the state lunatic hospitals, may be discharged by the county commissioners when the cause of confinement has ceased to exist. veyed by an instrument in writing signed by the grantor or his agent, shall have the force and effect of estates at will only, and no estate in lands shall be assigned, granted, or surrendered, unless signed as aforesaid or by the operation of law.

SECT. 3. No bargain and sale or other like conveyance in fee simple, fee tail, or for life, and no lease for more than twenty years from the making thereof, shall be valid and effectual against other than the grantor, and his heirs and devisees, and no presumption of notice thereof, unless it is made by a deed recorded in the registry of deeds for the county or district where the land is situated.

SECT. 4. Any person actually seised of lands as tenant in fee simple, or for life, or for years, or as if he were seised thereof in fee simple; and such conveyance shall bar the estate tail and all remainders and reversions expectant thereon.

SECT. 5. When lands are held by one person for life, or for years, or as if he were seised thereof in fee simple, and the remainder in tail to another, the tenant for life and the remainderman may convey the same in fee simple by their deed or deed of gift, in like manner as if the remainder had been limited to them, and such deed or deeds shall bar the estate tail and all reversions expectant thereon.

SECT. 6. Equitable estates tail in lands or tenements, or remainder, may be conveyed in fee simple, and all reversions expectant thereon may be barred, in the same manner as legal estates tail may be conveyed and the remainders and reversions expectant thereon barred by the two preceding sections.

SECT. 7. The person to whom such equitable fee simple is conveyed pursuant to the preceding section, may call for a conveyance of the outstanding legal estate from the person in whom the same is at the time thereafter vested in trust; and the supreme judicial court shall have jurisdiction in equity to compel the conveyance thereof.

SECT. 8. A deed of quitclaim and release of the form prescribed in this state, shall be sufficient to pass all the estate which the grantor could lawfully convey by a deed of bargain and sale.

SECT. 9. A conveyance made by a tenant for life or years, or as if he were seised thereof in fee simple, or could convey, shall not work a forfeiture of his estate, but shall vest in the grantee all the estate which such tenant could lawfully convey.

SECT. 10. No expectant estate shall be defeated or barred by alienation or other act of the owner of the precedent estate, or by the destruction of such precedent estate by disseisin, forfeiture, or merger.

SECT. 11. The two preceding sections shall not be construed to prevent the barring of estates tail in the manner before provided in this chapter, nor to prevent any expectant estate from being barred in any manner provided for or authorized by the party creating the same.

SECT. 12. When lands are given by deed or will to a person for his life, and after his death to his heirs in fee, or by words of the conveyance shall be construed to vest an estate for life in the first taker, and a remainder in fee simple in his heirs.

SECT. 13. All conveyances and devises of lands made to two or more persons, except as provided in the following section, shall be construed to create estates in common and not in joint tenancy, unless expressed therein that the grantees or devisees shall take the same jointly, or as joint tenants, or in joint tenancy, or to them and their heirs and assigns forever.

The preceding section shall not apply to mortgages, nor conveyances made in trust, or made to husband and wife, or conveyance in which it manifestly appears from the instrument, that it was intended to create an estate in joint
